BANDITS SEIZE $5,000 PAYROLL IN COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 8.—Two armed bandits held-up H. W. Beck, paymaster of the Boyajohn and Barr contracting Co. here today, seized a $5,000 payroll, and escaped.

The thugs accosted Beck as he was leaving the City National Bank and Trust company in the heart of the downtown business district. Beck was just about to enter his automobile when one of the men poked a gun into his back and told him to get into the car.

They compelled him to drive to a quiet district on the East Side where they stole the bags of money and forced Beck out of the car. They then drove away.

The payroll was intended for a group of workmen who are constructing the new physical education building at Ohio State University.

PRESIDENT HOOVER AIMS TO ENCOURAGE BUSINESS REVIVAL

To Discuss Business In
Message To Congress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—President Hoover will discuss the business situation in detail in his message to congress in December, with recommendation that legislation be enacted to encourage business to spread the call, "full steam ahead," it was predicted in administration circles.

With tariff legislation temporarily shelved, many officials of the administration believe congress can instill the optimism which will hasten business recovery by its action in the short session.

Mr. Hoover has held frequent conferences with financial and industrial leaders in the last few weeks, and is said to be gathering elaborate data for use in preparing his message.

The president hinted in his speech to the American Federation of Labor that he would favor changes in the anti-trust laws to permit combinations which would remove disastrous competition and halt over production.

Other proposals which the President may discuss include:

Legislation to encourage conservation of oil and halting of over-production which cooperation has not yet stopped.

Measures authorizing American firms to cooperate in purchasing necessary raw materials abroad, to insure a steady supply at fair prices. The President endorsed such a bill before he entered the White House.

Assurance to business that the fund of the federal farm board will not be used to destroy legitimate business, in order to unduly hasten the organization of farmers co-operatives.

Liberalization of the national banking laws to permit further branch banking, but under strict supervision.

Hastening of railroad consolidation legislation, to settle a question which has thrown plans of many railroads into confusion.

The administration, it is felt in some quarters, may put pressure on the congress in the short session to enact measures which might not be considered, after the complex changes in the 72nd congress.

The house will remain overwhelmingly Republican this winter, but the administration control is likely to be spent when the new congress begins to function, a year from December.

With this situation confronting him, the president, it is believed in some quarters, may urge limited revision of the present tax laws to encourage business. Among the proposals made, is repeal of the capital gains and losses tax, which many business leaders declare is a deterrent to expansion activities.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The late Lord Thomson, former British air minister, foresaw the possibility that death or serious injury might befall him aboard the ill-fated dirigible R-101 on its disastrous flight to India, it was revealed in his will which was filed here today.

Lord Thomson was one of 48 men who lost their lives when the giant craft crashed in flames near Beauvais, France.

Lord Thomson's will, dated October 3, 1930, stipulated that his entire estate should go to his brother in the event of his death during the flight of the R-101 to and from India or as a result thereof.

The air minister's estate totaled $8,600. The revelation that Lord Thomson fully realized there were dangers attendant upon the flight came just at a time when a British court of inquiry was delving into charges that the R-101 was not in a condition for the India flight.

ALLEGED ROBBER IS DENIED NEW TRIAL

Overruling a motion for a new trial, Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy announced he will pass sentence Monday morning upon Eugene Smith, 25, of 2815 Woodside Ave., Springfield, who was recently convicted by a jury of highway robbery in connection with the hold-up of a filling station at Fairfield last August 17 in which Frank R. Powers, part owner, was robbed of $49.36.

Smith had set up an alibi at his trial that he and his 17-year-old wife were seated in a theater at Springfield viewing a movie at the time the robbery is alleged to have taken place. His wife, placed on the witness stand, corroborated his testimony.

ROB SNOOK JUROR

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 8.—W. L. Balthaser, one of the jurors who sent Dr. James H. Snook to the electric chair for the murder of Theora Hix, was held up and robbed in his grocery store here today.

Balthaser said the bandit entered and asked for a loaf of bread. As he turned to go to the cash register with the money he had received for the bread, the robber said: "Stick 'em up."

His loot totaled $6.41.

EVERYONE INVITED TO ARMORY PROGRAM HERE NEXT TUESDAY

Joint Celebration Will Be Community
Affair

Every resident of Greene County is extended a cordial invitation to visit Xenia Tuesday, November 11 to participate in the observance of Armistice Day and the dedication of the new National Guard Armory. Officials of the city and county, heads of patriotic and fraternal societies and of business men's organizations join in urging that residents of the county and of other towns within its borders spend the day here.

"This is a community event, one in which every resident of Greene County should participate," Captain Ozni Cornwell, commander of Company L, said today. "The armory is a community asset, something in which every resident of Greene County has title; a building which within its limitations may be used by all Greene County residents. It is a model armory and when we have succeeded in equipping it thoroughly will become an institution in which every Greene County citizen may take pride. All residents of the county are urged to visit with us next Tuesday, and inspect the new building, taking part in the various ceremonies arranged for their enjoyment."

Delegations are expected here from nearly every town in the county. Fairfield and Osborn will send solid delegations to Xenia to participate in the parade with their own band. Similar delegations probably will come from Yellow Springs, Springfield, Oldtown, Jamestown and others.

World War veterans throughout the county will come to Xenia during the morning to be present at memorial services at the O. S. and S. O. Home at 10:30 a. m. under the auspices of the American Legion. These services will culminate in the observance of the two minute silence period, at 11 a. m.

The parade will form at 2 p. m. under the direction of Dr. B. R. McClellan, acting as grand marshal, who will be assisted by Sheriff Ohmer Tate and Lester Barnes as aides. The parade will move promptly at 2:30 p. m. following a route to be designated by the grand marshal and disbanding at the doors of the armory. The reviewing stand will be on the west side of the Court House with Adjutant General Reynolds, State Representative R. D. Williamson and other distinguished guests occupying seats of honor. Dr. W. R. McClellan of Cedarville College, will deliver the principal address.

The dedication ceremony proper will begin at 3 p. m. closing with a military retreat at 5 p. m. Doors of the armory will be open for inspection by the public during the entire afternoon.

A banquet in the Masonic Temple at 6 p. m. to be followed by a grand military ball in the armory at 8 and lasting until 12 will close the events. Tickets for the last two events are on sale at all stores. Proceeds from this sale are to be used in furnishing equipment for the new armory.

WILL ASK APOLOGY

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Dismissal of charges against her two weeks ago is not sufficient, Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein said today following her return from Europe. She said she would demand return of her fingerprints from police and an apology from those responsible for her conviction as a vagrant.

The widow of the impresario charged she was "framed" by police and relatives.

EUROPEANS ARE SOLDIERS FROM CRADLE TO GRAVE IS STATEMENT

GENEVA, Nov. 8.—Europeans are reared as soldiers "from the cradle to the grave," Count Von Bernstorff, veteran German statesman and diplomat, told the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations today.

Von Bernstorff's statement, which by its blunt admissions electrified the staid session, came in the midst of an unsuccessful plea to have trained military reserves limited along with navies, armies and air forces in behalf of world disarmament.

The German delegate's resolution was defeated by a vote of twelve to six.

"For centuries," Count Von Bernstorff declared, "Europeans have been obliged to base their lives from the cradle on the idea of forced military services."

"Therefore I have always considered that limitation of trained reserves is the only method to effect disarmament."

Today, the military organization of Europe is such that a disarmament pact which failed to limit trained reserves would be utterly useless."

RECOVER FOUR MORE BODIES FROM SHAFT RAISING TOLL TO 83

Believe One Other Body
Still Buried Under
Debris

MILLFIELD, O., Nov. 8.—On the remote possibility that the body of still another miner may be buried under debris in the blast-ripped mine number six of the Sunday Creek Coal Co. where four more victims were discovered late yesterday rescue crews pressed a further search in the workings today.

Meanwhile, officials of the Ohio Bureau of Mines, headed by E. W. Smith, began a thorough investigation into the causes of the tragedy, which, with the finding of the four additional bodies yesterday, took a death toll of eighty-three, according to the checkup of Pearl Hill, paymaster of the mine.

The bodies of the latest recovered men were identified as those of Phil Powell, mine boss, Paul Erwin, James Lyons and John Weis.

Powell's body was found under the steps of the air shaft through which seven men escaped after the explosion Wednesday afternoon. Erwin's body was found in a passageway. Rescuers had been barred from the passageway earlier because of poisonous gas. Lyons and Weis were also found near the air shaft.

Finding of the body of Lyons was a surprise to officials and rescue leaders. After the bodies of Powell and Erwin had been taken out, they said they believed there was only one more body in the mine—that of Weis. Weis was the only man who was on the official list of the missing after Powell and Erwin had been found.

The work of bracing the mine preparatory to the investigation was practically completed today.

Some of the mine officials expressed belief that the explosion was caused by a "squeeze." This, they explained, is the result of pressure from beneath causing the floor of the drift to lift, breaking down portals which hemmed in old workings, and allowing gas to escape into the mine.

John Dean, a mine boss, who was the hero of the tragedy, said he believed the explosion was caused by an overcharge of powder being used in blasting down coal. Dean, who with eighteen other men was working in an entry near the main explosion, saved his own life and those of his eighteen fellow-workmen by enclosing the entry with canvas so that the poisonous gas could not get to them. All but one was unconscious when rescuers found them. They were the only survivors of the catastrophe.

While the state's investigation and the final search for additional bodies were going on, relatives of the eighty-three victims were completing funeral arrangements for the dead miners. Most of them were to be buried at private services today and Sunday. The last four victims to be removed from the tomb will be laid to rest Monday.

Several of the nineteen survivors, who escaped death by only a few minutes, have been discharged from the Athens hospital and are recovering in their homes.

On the outcome of the congressional election in the Eighth Indiana district hangs the question of whether Democrats or Republicans will control the house of representatives in the seventy-second congress. For Albert H. Vestal, above, in unofficial tabulations led his Democratic opponent, Claude C. Ball by three votes, with Republicans and Democrats holding an equal number of seats in the lower house. Ball is requesting a recount.

TERRY DRUGGAN IS OBJECT OF SEARCH BY CHICAGO POLICE

Reputed Beer Baron
Wanted For Many
Offenses

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Terry Druggan, reputed beer baron and gang leader credited with the latest plot to remove "Scarface Al" Capone from his throne as gang overlord, was the object of a county-wide manhunt today.

In addition to a contempt of court citation handed down last night by Judge John H. Lyle, nemesis of gangsters, Druggan is facing trial on charges of murder, income tax evasion and vagrancy. The contempt citation was based on an allegation that Druggan had been deceiving the courts concerning his illness in order to evade appearing for sentence before Judge Lyle.

Authorities directing the search for the gang leader regarded the evidence pointing to a plot to kill Capone, his arch-enemy, as significant. In raiding Druggan's luxurious ten room apartment police found a letter from an exiled gangster in Ford Lauderdale, Fla., indicating that Druggan had been plotting the assassination of Capone, in the opinion of police. Capone is building a new Florida home there and is in Florida at present, investigation has disclosed.

Besides the letter and other records, police confiscated a submachine gun, twelve loaded revolvers and a large store of ammunition.

Heavy Consignment Of Cash Stolen In Wild West Style

BERKLEY, Cal., Nov. 8.—Authorities conducting the search for five gunmen who held up the Southern Pacific Railway's "Stockton Flyer," terrorizing the passengers with machine guns, shotguns and rifles, estimated today that at least $56,000 in cash and currency was obtained as loot.

Working on the theory that the gunmen had been "tipped off" that the train carried a cash consignment for the American Trust Co. at Pittsburgh, Cal., police were attempting to trace the source of the information.

Following a well worked out plan, the bandits worked with precision. They fired but two shots in the thirteen minutes they held the train crew and passengers at bay. The first hit the steel mail car to intimidate the clerk and the second was fired as a signal to the deployed gunmen that the loot had been obtained. None of the passengers was molested.

Police believe that one man boarded the train at Berkeley as a passenger, and later worked his way to the locomotive where he held the engineer and firemen with a pistol.

As the train slid to a halt two machine guns mounted on a flat car covered the locomotive and the firemen deployed about the train.

When the mail coach was opened under threat of blowing it up with dynamite the bandits asked for the Pittsburgh, (Cal.) pouch, containing $40,000. This was taken as well as three other sacks of registered mail.

The gunmen then escaped in a stolen car which had been parked behind a barbed wire fence.

SPORTS PROGRAM TO RELIEVE JOBLESS

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—With Mayor James J. Walker in command, every department of the city of New York will cooperate with a general committee headed by Grover Whalen and sports writers of New York City to relieve the want of the unemployed of this city.

A program of sports will be arranged to help the needy ones.

Mayor Walker today turned first to football. The offer of New York University, to play any team in the land was accepted.

The mayor appointed Daniel M. Daniel chairman of the football committee to study the situation and select a team to meet the Violets.

At the same time Mayor Walker sent urgent telegrams to the heads of the Southern Conference requesting that in this emergency, rules be suspended, and the University of Alabama, be permitted to come north to play the Violets. Utah has offered to play any team here and may be invited.

Surprised to find their bullets dropping harmlessly from the bullet-proof glass before the cashier's cage, the pair fled without getting any loot.

Mrs. Lulu Foss, a customer, received a flesh wound in the side of her head when a ricocheted slug struck her.

In her complaint Mrs. McLean alleged non-support and asked the court to tie up the income from the estate of the late John R. McLean of Cincinnati, father of the defendant, until provision is made for the support of her three children and herself. She asked $10,000 monthly.

She set forth that she was married to the defendant in Denver, Colo., in 1907, and has three children living. The eldest son was killed by an automobile in front of the McLean home, "Friendship" several years ago.

TO THE VICTOR GO-TELEGRAMS

Photo shows them, in Philadelphia, looking over a portion of the messages. ### WILL INDICATES BRITISH AIR HEAD HAD PREMONITION OF FATE

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The late Lord Thomson, former British air minister, foresaw the possibility that death or serious injury might befall him aboard the ill-fated dirigible R-101 on its disastrous flight to India, it was revealed in his will which was filed here today.

Lord Thomson was one of 48 men who lost their lives when the giant craft crashed in flames near Beauvais, France.

Lord Thomson's will, dated October 3, 1930, stipulated that his entire estate should go to his brother in the event of his death during the flight of the R-101 to and from India or as a result thereof.

NONPARTISAN SOLUTION OF JOB SITUATION MAY BE ATTEMPTED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—A non-partisan solution of national unemployment and a bipartisan program for insuring business stability will be sought by both parties, it appeared today, as an aftermath to the sweeping Democratic victories in the congressional elections.

Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, Republican leader of the senate, declared that the elections, while virtually ending Republican control of the next congress, have brought "assured stability" to American business. He added that the time for "playing party politics had passed," and that at the coming session, both parties should join in enacting legislation, believing the public confidence necessary for renewed national prosperity.

At the same time a statement signed by seven leaders of the Democratic party, including Alfred E. Smith, John J. Davis, James M. Cox, John J. Rascob, J. P. Morgan and the leaders of the two houses, was broadcast through the country today giving a solemn pledge not to take partisan advantage of the situation in the 72nd congress.

Cooperation with President Hoover in all matters affecting the stability and prosperity of the country was promised.

"From the standpoint of national policy or policies," said Watson, in commenting on the election, "no change is likely to occur. That ought to establish a pretty satisfactory condition for American business. At least, it should assure business stability. We will have a Republican congress and whichever party controls the next congress or even a divided control of it, the country may rest assured that no legislation destructive or harmful to good business can be enacted. That safeguard should give business greater confidence."

"Congress must help business in putting more men back to work and starting a new cycle of prosperity."

The signed statement of the Democrats declared the result of Tuesday's election was less a "political triumph than as a great opportunity for constructive service."

Recalling the Republicans passed the tariff act despite opposition from the Democrats and progressive Republicans, the statement declared the high rates retarded business recovery by destroying foreign markets.

DECREASE IN OHIO DEATHS NOTICED

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 8.—The number of deaths in Ohio during the first seven months of this year decreased 4,513 persons compared with the same period last year, the state health department announced today. There were 50,384 deaths during the first seven months last year and 45,871 this year.

Several causes of death showed increases this year, however. Fatalities resulting from smallpox increased 500 per cent; typhoid fever, 59.5 per cent; homicide, 17 per cent; falls, 17 per cent; suicide, 9 per cent; auto accidents, 7 per cent; diabetes, 6 per cent; cancer, 5 per cent; and diseases of the heart, 2 per cent.

EX-FOLLIES GIRL COMMITTS SUICIDE

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Grief over the death two years ago of her small son Joseph was held responsible today for the suicide of Maude Clark, erstwhile Ziegfeld follies dancer.

The former follies girl's body, clad in her silver-spangled dancing costume and clasping a picture of the son, was found at her lodging house.

Beside her body were three empty phials that had contained poison.

WEATHER HOLDS UP RETURN OF HAWKS

HAVANA, Nov. 8.—Unsettled weather conditions today caused Captain Frank M. Hawks, ace of speed fliers, to announce postponement of his return flight from Havana to New York.

Captain Hawks is expected to leave Sunday if weather conditions are propitious. He is anxious to break his own record of nine hours and 21 minutes for the 1,600 mile flight, established when he flew here from Valley Stream, New York, Thursday.

CONTROL HINGES ON CONTESTS; G. O. P. HOLDS SLIGHT LEAD

Democrats Plan To Challenge
Shouse De-
clares

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Control of the seventy-second congress, which has been flitting like a will-o'-the-wisp between Republicans and Democrats ever since the ballot boxes were opened last Tuesday, hinged today upon recounts and contests in nearly a score of districts.

On the face of virtually complete returns today the Republicans have a margin of one in the senate and a margin of one in the house.

If those single votes are maintained, the Republicans will be able to organize both senate and house, retain the speakership, and the important committee chairmanships.

There are, however, from fifteen to twenty cases in the house elections where the margin of victory is only a handful of votes, and in each of these recounts and possible contests are planned.

The eighth Indiana district affords a typical example. There the Republican whip of the house, Rep. Albert H. Vestal, appeared to have lost to C. C. Ball, his Democratic opponent, by only three votes. A recount turned apparent defeat into a victory for Vestal by nine votes. The Democrats are not going to let that stand unchallenged.

While this is the closest contest on record, there are dozen others, scattered in Ohio, New York, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Illinois, Connecticut, Oklahoma, and West Virginia, where from 13 to several hundred votes separate the winners and the losers.

The importance of these recounts may readily be appreciated when the makeup of the new house is considered: 218 Republican, 217 Democrats, one Farmer-Laborite. Oddly enough, it is mostly Republicans who have managed to appear on top in these narrow squeaks, although the Democrats have a few.

"We are going to challenge in every district where we have reason to believe we have won," said J. P. Shouse, chairman of the Democratic executive committee.

Shouse was in telephonic communication yesterday and today with Democratic leaders in a number of the affected districts, counseling close scrutiny of the figures, and in some cases investigation.

Whichever way the contests go, however, it became more and more apparent today that fate is probably going to set the plans of the leaders at naught and itself decide which party shall rule the new congress.

A search of the records disclosed that for the last eighteen years the death rate in congress has averaged slight in excess of

BANDITS SEIZE $5,000 PAYROLL IN COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 8.—Two armed bandits held-up H. W. Beck, paymaster of the Boyajohn and Barr contracting Co. here today, seized a $5,000 payroll, and escaped.

The thugs accosted Beck as he was leaving the City National Bank and Trust company in the heart of the downtown business district. Beck was just about to enter his automobile when one of the men poked a gun into his back and told him to get into the car.

They compelled him to drive to a quiet district on the East Side where they stole the bags of money and forced Beck out of the car. They then drove away.

The payroll was intended for a group of workmen who are constructing the new physical education building at Ohio State University.

PRESIDENT HOOVER AIMS TO ENCOURAGE BUSINESS REVIVAL

To Discuss Business In
Message To Congress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—President Hoover will discuss the business situation in detail in his message to congress in December, with recommendation that legislation be enacted to encourage business to spread the call, "full steam ahead," it was predicted in administration circles.

With tariff legislation temporarily shelved, many officials of the administration believe congress can instill the optimism which will hasten business recovery by its action in the short session.

Mr. Hoover has held frequent conferences with financial and industrial leaders in the last few weeks, and is said to be gathering elaborate data for use in preparing his message.

The President hinted in his speech to the American Federation of Labor that he would favor changes in the anti-trust laws to permit combinations which would remove disastrous competition and halt over production.

Other proposals which the President may discuss include: Legislation to encourage conservation of oil and halting of over production which cooperation has not yet stopped.

Measures authorizing American firms to cooperate in purchasing necessary raw materials abroad, to insure a steady supply at fair prices. The President endorsed a bill before he entered the White House.

Assurance to business that the fund of the federal farm board will not be used to destroy legitimate business, in order to unduly hasten the organization of farmers co-operatives.

Liberalization of the national banking laws to permit further branch banking, but under strict supervision.

Hastening of railroad consolidation legislation, to settle a question which has thrown plans of many railroads into confusion.

The administration, it is felt in some quarters, may put pressure on the congress in the short session to enact measures which might not be considered, after the complex changes in the 72nd congress.

The house will remain overwhelmingly Republican this winter, but the administration control is likely to be spent when the new congress begins to function, a year from December.

With this situation confronting him, the president, it is believed in some quarters, may urge limited revision of the present tax laws to encourage business. Among the proposals made, is repeal of the capital gains and losses tax, which many business leaders declare is a deterrent to expansion activities.

ALLEGED ROBBER IS DENIED NEW TRIAL

Overruling a motion for a new trial, Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy announced he will pass sentence Monday morning upon Eugene Smith, 25, of 2315 Woodside Ave., Springfield, who was recently convicted by a jury of highway robbery in connection with the hold-up of a filling station at Fairfield last August 17 in which Frank R. Powers, part owner, was robbed of $49.36.

Smith had set up an alibi at his trial that he and his 17-year-old wife were seated in a theater at Springfield viewing a movie at the time the robbery is alleged to have taken place. His wife placed on the witness stand, corroborated his testimony.

RECOVER FOUR MORE BODIES FROM SHAFT RAISING TOLL TO 83

Believe One Other Body
Still Buried Under
Debris

MILLFIELD, O., Nov. 8.—On the remote possibility that the body of still another miner may be buried under debris in the blast-ripped mine number six of the Sunday Creek Coal Co. where four more victims were discovered late yesterday rescue crews pressed a further search in the workings today.

Meanwhile, officials of the Ohio Bureau of Mines, headed by E. W. Smith, began a thorough investigation into the causes of the tragedy, which, with the finding of the four additional bodies yesterday, took a death toll of eighty-three, according to the checkup of Pearl Hill, paymaster of the mine.

The bodies of the latest recovered men were identified as those of Phil Powell, mine boss, Paul Erwin, James Lyons and John Weis.

Powell's body was found under the steps of the air shaft through which seven men escaped after the explosion Wednesday afternoon. Erwin's body was found in a passageway. Rescuers had been barred from the passageway earlier because of poisonous gas. Lyons and Weis were also found near the air shaft.

Finding of the body of Lyons was a surprise to officials and rescue leaders. After the bodies of Powell and Erwin had been taken out, they said they believed there was only one more body in the mine—that of Weis. Weis was the only man who was on an official list of the missing after Powell and Erwin had been found.

The work of bratticing the mine preparatory to the investigation was practically completed today.

Some of the mine officials expressed belief that the explosion was caused by a "squeeze." This, they explained, is the result of pressure from beneath causing the floor of the drift to lift, breaking down portals which hemmed in old workings, and allowing gas to escape into the mine.

John Dean, a mine boss, who was the hero of the tragedy, said he believed the explosion was caused by an overcharge of powder being used in blasting down coal. Dean, who with eighteen men was working on an entry near the main explosion, saved his own life and those of his eighteen fellow-workmen by enclosing the entry with canvas so that the poisonous gas could not get to them. All but one was unconscious when rescuers found them. They were the only survivors of the catastrophe.

While the state's investigation and the final search for additional bodies were going on, relatives of the eighty-three victims were completing funeral arrangements for the dead miners. Most of them were to be buried at private services today and Sunday. The last four victims to be removed from the tomb will be laid to rest Monday.

Several of the nineteen survivors, who escaped death by only a few minutes, have been discharged from the Athens hospital and are recovering in their homes.

Delegations are expected here from nearly every town in the county. Fairfield and Osborn will send solid delegations to Xenia to participate in the parade with their own band. Similar delegations probably will come from Yellow Springs, Spring Valley, Oldtown, Jamestown and others.

World War veterans throughout the county will come to Xenia during the morning to be present at memorial services at the O. S. and S. O. Home at 10:30 a. m. under the auspices of the American Legion. These services will culminate in the observance of the two minute silence period, at 11 a. m.

The parade will form at 2 p. m. under the direction of Dr. B. R. McClellan, acting as grand marshal, who will be assisted by Sheriff Ohmer Tate and Lester Barnes as aides. The parade will move promptly at 2:30 p. m. following a route to be designated by the grand marshal and disbanding at the doors of the armory. The reviewing stand will be on the west side of the Court House with Adjutant General Reynolds, State Representative R. D. Williamson and other distinguished guests occupying seats of honor. Dr. W. R. McChesney of Cedarville College, will deliver the principal address.

The dedication ceremony proper will begin at 3 p. m. closing with a military retreat at 5 p. m. Doors of the armory will be open for inspection by the public during the entire afternoon.

A banquet in the Masonic Temple at 6 p. m. to be followed by a grand military ball in the armory at 8 and lasting until 12 will close the events. Tickets for the last two events are on sale at all stores. Proceeds from this sale are to be used in furnishing equipment for the new armory.

Geneva, Nov. 8.—Europeans are reared as soldiers "from the cradle to the grave," Count Von Bernstorff, veteran German statesman and diplomat, told the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations today.

Von Bernstorff's statement, which by its blunt admissions electrified the staid session, came in the midst of an unsuccessful plea to have trained military reserves limited along with navies, armies and air forces in behalf of world disarmament.

The German delegate's resolution was defeated by a vote of twelve to six.

"For centuries," Count Von Bernstorff declared, "Europeans have been obliged to base their lives from the cradle on the idea of forced military service."

"Therefore I have always considered that limitation of trained reserves is the only method to effect disarmament."

On the outcome of the congressional election in the Eighth Indiana district hangs the question of whether Democrats or Republicans will control the house of representatives in the seventy-second congress. ### TERRY DRUGGAN IS OBJECT OF SEARCH BY CHICAGO POLICE

Reputed Beer Baron
Wanted For Many
Offenses

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Terry Druggan, reputed beer baron and gang leader credited with the latest plot to remove "Scarface Al" Capone from his throne as gang overlord, was the object of a county-wide manhunt today.

In addition to a contempt of court citation handed down last night by Judge John H. Lyle, nemesis of gangsters, Druggan is facing trial on charges of murder, income tax evasion and vagrancy. The contempt citation was based on an allegation that Druggan had been deceiving the courts concerning his illness in order to evade appearing for sentence before Judge Lyle.

Authorities directing the search for the gang leader regarded the evidence pointing to a plot to kill Capone, his arch-enemy, as significant. In raiding Druggan's luxurious ten room apartment police found a letter from an exiled gangster in Ford Lauderdale, Fla., indicating that Druggan had been plotting the assassination of Capone. In the opinion of police, Capone is building a new Florida home there and is in Florida at present, investigation has disclosed.

Besides the letter and other records police confiscated a submachine gun, twelve loaded revolvers and a large store of ammunition.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—With Mayor James J. Walker in command, every department of the city of New York will cooperate with a general committee headed by Grover Whalen and sports writers of New York City to relieve the want of the unemployed of this city.

A program of sports will be arranged to help the needy ones. Mayor Walker today turned first to football. The offer of New York University, to play any team in the land was accepted.

The mayor appointed Daniel M. Daniel, chairman of the football committee to study the situation and select a team to meet the Violets.

At the same time Mayor Walker sent urgent telegrams to the heads of the Southern Conference requesting that in this emergency, rules be suspended, and the University of Alabama, be permitted to come north to play the Violets. Utah has offered to play any team here and may be invited.

Heavy Consignment Of Cash Stolen In Wild West Style

BERKLEY, Cal., Nov. 8.—Authorities conducting the search for five gunmen who held up the Southern Pacific Railway's "Stockton Flyer," terrorizing the passengers with machine guns, shotguns and rifles, estimated today that at least $56,000 in cash and currency was obtained as loot.

Working on the theory that the gunmen had been "tipped off" that the train carried a cash consignment for the American Trust Co. at Pittsburgh, Cal., police were attempting to trace the source of the information.

Following a well worked out plan the bandits worked with precision. They fired but two shots in the thirteen minutes they held the train crew and passengers at bay. The first hit the steel mail car to intimidate the clerk and the second was fired as a signal to the deployed gunmen that the loot had been obtained. None of the passengers was molested.

Police believe that one man boarded the train at Berkeley as a passenger, and later worked his way to the locomotive where he held the engineer and firemen with a pistol.

As the train slid to a halt two machine guns mounted on a flat car covered the locomotive and firemen deployed about the train.

When the mail coach was opened under threat of blowing it up with dynamite the bandits asked for the Pittsburgh, Cal. pouch, containing $40,000. This was taken as well as three other sacks of registered mail.

The gunmen then escaped in a stolen car which had been parked behind a barbed wire fence.

WILL INDICATES BRITISH AIR HEAD HAD PREMONITION OF FATE

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The late Lord Thomson, former British air minister, foresaw the possibility that death or serious injury might befall him aboard the ill-fated dirigible R-101 on its disastrous flight to India, it was revealed in his will which was filed here today.

Lord Thomson was one of 48 men who lost their lives when the giant craft crashed in flames near Beauvais, France.

Lord Thomson's will, dated October 3, 1920, stipulated that his entire estate should go to his brother "in the event of my death during the flight of the R-101 and from India or as a result thereof."

The air minister's estate totaled $8,600. The revelation that Lord Thomson fully realized there were dangers attendant upon the flight came just at a time when a British court of inquiry was delving into charges that the R-101 was not in a condition for the India flight.

NONPARTISAN SOLUTION OF JOB SITUATION MAY BE ATTEMPTED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—A non-partisan solution of national unemployment and a bipartisan program for insuring business stability will be sought by both parties, it appeared today, as an aftermath to the sweeping Democratic victories in the congressional elections.

Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, Republican leader of the senate, declared that the elections, while virtually ending Republican control of the next congress, have brought "assured stability" to American business. He added that the time for "playing party politics" in the sweeping Democratic victories in the congressional elections, was over.

At the same time a statement signed by seven leaders of the Democratic party, including Alfred E. Smith, John J. Davis, James M. Cox, John J. Rascob, Joett Shouse and the leaders of the two houses, was broadcast through the country today giving a solemn pledge not to take partisan advantage of the situation in the 72nd congress.

Cooperation with President Hoover in all matters affecting the stability and prosperity of the country was promised.

"From the standpoint of national policy or policies," said Watson, in commenting on the election, "that change is likely to occur. That ought to establish a pretty satisfactory condition for American business. At least, it should assure business stability. We will have a Republican congress and whichever party controls the next congress or even a divided control of it, the country may rest assured that no legislation destructive or hurtful to good business can be enacted. That safeguard should come just at a time when a British court of inquiry was delving into charges that the R-101 was not in a condition for the India flight."

The signed statement of the Democrats declared the result of Tuesday's election was less a "political triumph" than as a great opportunity for constructive service.

Recalling the Republicans passed the tariff act despite opposition from the Democrats and progressive Republicans, the statement declared the high rates retarded business recovery by destroying foreign markets.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Grief over the death two years ago of her small son Joseph was held responsible today for the suicide of Maude Clark, erstwhile Ziegfeld follies dancer.

The former follies girl's body, clad in her silver-spangled dancing costume and clasping a picture of the son, was found at her lodging house.

Beside her body were three empty phials that had contained poison.

CONTROL HINGES ON CONTESTS; G. O. P. HOLDS SLIGHT LEAD

Democrats Plan To Challenge
clares

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Control of the seventy-second congress, which has been flitting like a will-o'-the-wisp between Republicans and Democrats ever since the ballot boxes were opened last Tuesday, hinged today upon recounts and contests in nearly a score of districts.

On the face of virtually complete returns today the Republicans have a margin of one in the senate and a margin of one in the house.

If those single votes are maintained, the Republicans will be able to organize both senate and house, retain the speakership, and the important committee chairmanships.

There are, however, from fifteen to twenty cases in the house elections where the margin of victory is only a handful of votes, and in each of these recounts and possible contests are planned.

The eighth Indiana district affords a typical example. There the Republican whip of the house, Rep. Albert H. Vestal, appeared to have lost to C. C. Ball, his Democratic opponent, by only three votes. A recount turned apparent defeat into a victory for Vestal by nine votes. The Democrats are not going to let that stand unchallenged.

While this is the closest contest on record, there are dozen others, scattered in Ohio, New York, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Illinois, Connecticut, Oklahoma, and West Virginia, where from 12 to several hundred votes separate the winners and the losers.

The importance of these recounts may readily be appreciated when the make-up of the new house is considered: 218 Republican, 217 Democratic, one Farmer-Laborite. Oddly enough, it is mostly Republicans who have managed to appear on top in these narrow squeaks, although the Democrats have a few.

"We are going to challenge in every district where we have reason to believe we have won," said Joett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic executive committee.

Shouse was in telephonic communication yesterday and today with Democratic leaders in a number of the affected districts, counseling close scrutiny of the figures, and in some cases investigation.

Whichever way the contests go, however, it became more and more apparent today that fate is probably going to set the plans of the leaders at naught and itself decide which party shall rule the new congress.

A search of the records disclosed that for the last eighteen years the death rate in congress has averaged slight in excess of

Research In Child Development Under Fels Fund Is Undertaken At Antioch

DURING the past year approximately fifty children from Greene County have been enrolled in a study of child development carried on at Antioch College, Yellow Springs. This study was made possible by a fund of $250,000, the gift of Samuel S. Fels, Philadelphia, so that the benefit of the investigation is given to the mothers entirely without expense.

The work in some respects resembles that of the Merrill-Palmer project in Detroit. It is a study of all the factors which contribute toward the physical, mental, and personality aspects of child development. Physical study includes rates of development of bones, time of appearance of teeth, effect of thyroid and other ductless gland activity, anthropometry or the measurements of certain dimensions of the body, and nutrition. The mental development of the child is studied by means of mental and performance tests for various ages. Personality development and habit formation are observed by a psychiatrist and a child psychologist, both trained in personality study and behavior. Physical condition of the mother and the development of the child's body are being observed by three physicians each especially interested in different phases of this study.

The work is carried on both in the home and in the offices of the organization at Yellow Springs where facilities for study include a complete laboratory and a trained technician. A nursery is maintained there in order to provide a suitable place for the observation of the children during their occasional visits for special measurements, behavior and personality study. A complete record book of child development is given to each mother to which she may refer for accurate information regarding physical and mental development of the child, and in which she may keep for herself records of her child's progress.

This study is unique in its thoroughness of observation of all the factors which may influence the baby. The expectant mother is observed and her diet and physical condition investigated for at least four months before the baby is born. The children are then observed regularly, every two weeks at first and at longer intervals later, for many years. The study is conducted in conjunction with the family physician or obstetrician in charge of the case.

The work, being observational only, does not in any way replace the physician in charge, but allows him to make use of the results of the investigation. Mothers who wish their children to have the benefit of this study should make application for enrollment in the Fels work through their own physician as early in pregnancy as possible. About fifteen Xenia mothers and their physicians are at present cooperating in this project, and about thirty more throughout Greene County. Several Springfield mothers are also interested in the work. Dr. L. W. Sontag is chief of this unusual research work.

The principal speaker for the occasion has not been decided upon but the remainder of the program is complete. The invocation will be delivered by Dr. B. V. McClellan, chaplain of Joseph P. Foody Post, No. 95, American Legion, after which Paul Fuller, post commander of the local Legion, will read the Legion constitution.

The chapel exercises will begin at 10:30 a. m. and at 11 o'clock the firing of a cannon will be the signal for the observance of a two-minute period of silence, marking the exact hour when the Armistice terminated the World War. Firing of a cannon will also signify the end of a silent period.

Taps will be sounded by the Home buglers and a firing squad will also play a part in the services.

He was a member of the firm of the S. and S. Shoe Store, formerly located on E. Main St., for ten years, where he was associated with his uncle, Harry Schwoebel, and then went to New Carlisle where he was in the shoe business for three years. He later returned to this city and operated the Styles Shoe Store on E. Main St., for two years. Six months ago he went to Tippecanoe City and opened a store. Mr. Stiles was interested in baseball and for many years was a semi-professional player. ## ENGLISH COMEDY IS FIRST VEHICLE FOR GUILD SEASON HERE

"Hayfever," an English comedy in three acts by the master playwright Noel Coward, has been selected as the opening vehicle of the new season by the Xenia Little Theater Guild, it is announced by Fred Flynn, president.

The comedy will be presented at the Opera House November 25 by a cast which is already rehearsing under direction of Miss Eleanor Klerman, Xenia, who has been chosen to succeed Mrs. H. C. Schick, Cedarville, as director for the Guild.

Miss Klerman is dramatic art teacher at Fairmount High School, Dayton, and has a number of successful performances to her credit. The opening opus was the choice of the play-reading committee, composed of Mrs. Charles L. Darlington Jr., chairman; Miss Mildred Sandoe, Miss Helena Santmyer, Miss Elsie Canby and F. M. Torrence.

Tickets for the first production, which will be open to the public, will go on sale next week. Season tickets will be sold as usual for $2.50 but this year will be made transferable as far as attendance at the Guild plays is concerned. And innovation this year is the creation of a junior membership, sold to youths of high school age for $1 a year, and entitling the junior members to participation in the Guild activities and attendance at the shows, but not a vote in Guild affairs.

The addition of a Guild pit orchestra this year, now being organized, is expected to prove an interesting innovation that will develop into a distinct advantage. Prof. H. E. Seall, director and Marcus Shoup, chairman of the music committee, are forming the orchestra. The first row of seats at the Opera House has been removed to permit a larger pit for a full-sized theater orchestra and it is hoped to recruit the best musicians in the city in the new organization. Besides Prof. Seall, and Mr. Shoup, Misses Juanita Rankin and Lois Street have been enlisted in the organization and others are being added as rapidly as possible.

It is hoped to have the orchestra rehearsed in time to make its debut in connection with the first Guild show of the year.

GRASS IS BURNED Sparks from a passing locomotive are believed to have been responsible for a grass fire in the rear of 504 W. ## Research In Child Development Under Fels Fund Is Undertaken At Antioch

DURING the past year approximately fifty children from Greene County have been enrolled in a study of child development carried on at Antioch College, Yellow Springs. This study was made possible by a fund of $250,000, the gift of Samuel S. Fels, Philadelphia, so that the benefit of the investigation is given to the mothers entirely without expense.

The work in some respects resembles that of the Merrill-Palmer project in Detroit. It is a study of all the factors which contribute toward the physical, mental, and personality aspects of child development. Physical study includes rates of development of bones, time of appearance of teeth, effect of thyroid and other ductless gland activity, anthropometry or the measurements of certain dimensions of the body, and nutrition. The mental development of the child is studied by means of mental and performance tests for various ages. Personality development and habit formation are observed by a psychiatrist and a child psychologist, both trained in physical study and behavior.

Physical condition of the mother and the development of the child's body are being observed by three physicians each especially interested in different phases of this study. The work is carried on both in the home and in the office of the organization at Antioch College, where the facilities for study include a complete laboratory and a trained technician. The work, being observational only, does not in any way replace the physician in charge, but allows him to make use of the results of the investigation. Mothers who wish their children to have the benefit of this study should make application for enrollment in the Fels work through their own physician as early in pregnancy as possible. About fifteen Xenia mothers and their physicians are at present cooperating in this project, and about thirty more throughout Greene County. Several Springfield mothers are also interested in the work. Dr. L. W. Sontag is chief of this unusual research work.

After deliberating two and a half hours, a jury in Common Pleas Court returned a verdict for the defendant Friday afternoon following the second trial of the $10,125 personal injury suit instituted by George H. Baker, 78, of Hiving St., against Robert Seaman, Mishawaka, Ind., former Antioch College student.

Ten of the twelve jurors concurred in the verdict, which exonerated the youth of blame for an auto accident at Detroit and Church Sts. June 26, 1929 in which Baker suffered a broken collar bone and multiple body bruises.

The first trial of the suit resulted in a verdict for $2,650 damages in favor of Baker, but the court set the verdict aside and granted a new trial on grounds of newly discovered evidence.

It was decided the next meeting will be at the home of the Supt. of the S. S., Mr. W. C. St. John. An open supper will be a feature of that event. The remainder of the evening was spent in social conversation and the singing of "old time songs."

NEW NEWSPRINT

The discovery that Georgia slash pine can be turned into acceptable newsprint is hailed by the Atlanta Constitution as of equal industrial importance with Whitney's invention of the cotton gin, a century or more ago. There is no doubt that it is of great potential value to Georgia and other southern states where slash pine can be cropped. The development of a newsprint industry would give these states a new source of income and would relieve their newspapers of dependence upon more remote sources of newsprint.

According to Dr. Charles H. Herty, a native of Georgia and a former president of the American Chemical Society, there are 150,000,000 acres of cutover lands and abandoned farms in the south capable of reforestation. While a single acre is producing 200 mature trees, about 500 trees suitable for paper making will be thinned out. Slash pine reaches pulp-wood size in ten years, whereas it takes spruce sixty years. This means that six crops of slash pine can be cut to one crop of spruce.

Although it has been used for the manufacture of brown and yellow wrapping paper, slash pine heretofore has been regarded as containing too much resin for newsprint. That is not the case says Dr. Herty, who claims that slash pine contains no more resin than spruce does and that the accumulation of resin does not become troublesome until the trees are twenty-five years old, when they have already passed the newsprint stage. The extensive experiments he has carried out by courtesy of friendly paper mills convince Dr. Herty that Georgia slash pine and the long-leaf pine are qualified to challenge the supremacy of Canadian spruce as the basis of the newsprint industry on this continent.

Georgia's good fortune, if it materializes, will be shared by the entire country. At present American newspapers are considerably dependent for their newsprint upon foreign sources of supply—Canada, Newfoundland and northern Europe. The development of a new domestic supply would diminish that dependence. At the same time it would keep in this country the money that now is spent on newsprint outside it. Canada, whose forest resources are not inexhaustible, should welcome such an easement of the increasing drain upon them.

WORLD KEEPS MOVING

Prince Tokugawa, who is president of the house of peers of the Japanese diet, arrived in New York on his way to Washington the other day and was interviewed in the regular course of business by metropolitan newspaper men. What impressed at least one of the interviewers was the prince's "placidity." He found the New York sky line "charming," but added, "we are building such things not quite so high—but what does that matter." Reports of killings by head hunters he dismissed with the observation that "they have killed others before," and that there is no reason for alarm. As to earthquakes, he said, "there always have been earthquakes." Then somebody spoke of bread lines, and the prince remarked, "Ah, you mean unemployment. But, my friends, did you ever know of a country in recent years that had no problem like this? It does not matter, because it will be taken care of. Yes, doubtless it is a sad state of affairs, but remember, my friends, the world is not coming to an end."

Doubtless such an attitude of mind as these remarks indicate is partly a matter of temperament, but doubtless, also, it is in part a matter of self-schooling that might very well be emulated in this country. Prince Tokugawa's remark that the present industrial depression here and elsewhere is a sad state of affairs, but that the world is not coming to an end, is a statement we all might take to heart, remembering that this viewpoint, quite typical of Japanese thought, does not prevent the government and leaders in Nippon from doing their utmost to alleviate and correct bad conditions.

Like an eclipse of the sun or of the moon the depression will pass, and we will emerge again into the glow of prosperity. Why not think about that?

HOW DID IT HAPPEN TO YOU?

How on earth did it happen? How did you get where you are? How can you explain it?

You were going to be carefree all your life, but you are not. You've had your troubles like everybody else. You've got into the ghastliest jams, and had to waste a lot of energy to get out of them. But somehow you aren't sorry.

You intended to be a shining success. You were going to nail your name to the heavens for all to see and to admire. . . . But your name isn't there at all. Only a few people know it, only a few know YOU. You aren't a failure, but you certainly are NOT what you intended to be.

You made up your mind to travel EVERYWHERE. You were going to South Africa, where the diamond mines are; to India, where the lovely Taj Mahal shines in the moonlight; to South America, and to that farthest Cape Horn, round which the pioneers beat in their trim clipper ships. . . . But you didn't go. You stayed at home and got a job and didn't see as much as you thought you'd see.

You were ambitious. You swore you would climb HIGH. You'd be selfish. You'd be different. You'd make no friends that could interfere with your mountain climbing. You wouldn't be soft, you'd be as hard as nails. You wouldn't marry and have children, and many a time you quoted to yourself: "Down to Gehenna and up to the throne, he travels the fastest who travels alone." That would be YOU—traveling alone and getting somewhere and getting everything you thought you wanted out of this life.

But here you are—with a job—and a wife or a husband—and a house—and children that adore you—and friends who like you and help you or ask to be helped—and you haven't gone THERE, and you haven't done THIS—and, just the same, you are HAPPY.

How did it happen? You haven't done what you wanted to do, you haven't gotten what you thought you ought to have. And yet, here you are! You were going by one road to happiness—but you went by another road entirely and still you came to happiness.

You thought you knew ALL about life, but it looks as if you didn't. Did you? And how can you

Mitchell, attorney general; Walter F. Brown, postmaster general; Charles F. Adams, secretary of the navy; Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior; Arthur M. ### America's Cup

When and where did the American entry first capture the yachting trophy known as America's Cup from England? What is the birthplace of Sir Thomas Lipton? The American yacht America defeated the British yacht Aurora in a race in British waters for an international trophy on August 22, 1851. This was the first race for the trophy which has since come to be known as the America's Cup. Sir Thomas Johnstone Lipton, Knight Commander of the Royal Victorian Order, Grand Officer of the Crown of Italy and Order of Saint Sava (Serbia), British tea merchant, and five times defeated challenger for the America's Cup, was born in Glasgow, Scotland, of Irish parentage, May 10, 1850.

Esperanto

Who invented the universal language, "Esperanto," and what are the main characteristics of this language?

Esperanto, the most popular among proposed auxiliary international languages, was invented by a Russian physician, Zamenhof, whose first publication on the subject in 1887 was signed Dr. Esperanto (Hopeful). This language consists of words that are common to all tongues, dropping those which are special to any one of them. In this language strict phonetic spelling is possible. The present spread of Esperanto would have been greater, perhaps, had it not been for the creation of new letters by its author, which made it difficult for newspapers and other publications, not possessing the special characters, to print extracts and articles in Esperanto.

Treaty of Ghent

When was the Treaty of Ghent signed and what war did it terminate?

The Treaty of Ghent between the United States and Great Britain was signed Dec. 24, 1814. This treaty ended the War of 1812, but failed to mention any of the causes of the war, which were the impressment of American seamen, extension of the right to search United States war vessels, the "paper blockades" established by the British Orders in Council, and the alleged efforts of Great Britain to persuade the Indians of the northwest to attack the Americans.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK.—One of Tammany Town's advertising geniuses—a lad by the name of Kelly—works like a beaver at his chosen profession for nine months a year, saves a wad of dough, produces a play, loses every nickel and goes back to advertising again.

Producing plays, Kelly says, is better than betting on the ponies. You get more of a run for your money.

LOST ART

The modern stage has lost its old, romantic air. There are too many theatres and the profession has become so commercialized by writing men, that none of its mystery remains.

Old Charles Frohman had the right idea. He reduced the publicity concerning his various stars to a minimum, with the result that when he did release an interview, everyone read it and was interested. Compare theatrical publicity to day with that of former times and the result is startling. Under the modern method innermost secrets of an actor's life are exploited for advertising purposes, and if the busy press agent cannot pry into a performer's existence with results sufficiently dramatic he is not in the least deterred. What a busy theatrical press representative does not know he imagines.

MORE APPROACHABLE

The New Dispensation has forced the actor into closer proximity to the public. Gone are the exclusive boarding houses where none but members of the theatrical profession were welcome.

Today, stage folk are forced into big hotels, teeming with those who know nothing and care less about the show business.

A thousand and one things have intervened to eradicate the old air of mystery that surrounded the profession, responsible for the romance that grew up around it. Present day competition is fast and furious. The movies while

ANOTHER ANNUAL HEART INSPECTION

DISMISSAL OF KELLEY NEARLY PARALLELS CASE OF 20 YEARS AGO

—CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—It is 20 years, almost exactly, since Louis R. Glavis was kicked out of his post as chief of the U. S. general land office's field division to the accompaniment of a red hot denunciation from President William H. Taft—on account of charges made by Glavis against Mr. Taft's then secretary of the interior, Richard A. Ballinger.

The kicking of Ralph S. Kelley out of precisely the same chieftainship the other day, to the accompaniment of a red hot denunciation from President Herbert Hoover, on account of charges made by Kelley against interior department methods under Mr. Hoover's secretary, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur—well, it was not quite an anniversary performance, but it did not miss it by very many weeks.

Glavis accused Secretary Ballinger of improprieties in the granting of government-owned Alaskan coal areas to big, unduly favored fuel interests. Kelly accused Secretary Wilbur's interests. Kelly accused the interior hands, of improprieties in the granting of government-owned Colorado oil shale areas to big petroleum interests.

President Taft did not act in Glavis' case without investigation. He referred Glavis' story to his attorney general, George W. Wickersham, now chairman of President Hoover's law enforcement commission. Mr. Wickersham assigned one of his assistants to dig into the matter thoroughly and soon the justice department was able to report to the White House that the land office chief's tale of Alaskan coal land irregularities was without a particle of evidence to substantiate it.

Naturally Glavis' dismissal from the federal service followed immediately, and it was not surprising that the president, unquestionably in all sincerity, spoke mightily bitterly concerning the man who had so unjustifiably (as he saw it) attacked one of his cabinet members.

The case did not end there, however.

Several senators, complaining that an investigation of one cabinet member (the secretary of the interior) by another cabinet member (the attorney general) did not satisfy them, forced a congressional inquiry.

It did not terminate as many folk, recalling the "Ballinger scandal," may think it did—in a finding against the interior secretary.

On the contrary, a majority of the committee of lawmakers voted to exonerate him, but there was an adverse minority—and just at that juncture the G. O. P. (Mr. Taft's and Mr. Ballinger's party) lost control of the house of representatives, which, if impeachment proceedings are to be begun, is the body named by the constitution to begin them, though the senate tries them.

Secretary Ballinger resigned the day before the new congress met.

Like President Taft in the Ballinger case, President Hoover by no means turned down Ralph S. Kelley's charges against his secretary of the interior's administration without a hearing.

He referred them to Attorney General William D. Mitchell. Mr. Mitchell assigned Assistant Attorney General Seth W. Richardson to go to the bottom of the charges and it can safely be assumed that Richardson has done his utmost to creating a tremendous drain on the "legitimate" stage are not the only factors. Among others may be listed dance halls, cabarets, night clubs, the radio, the automobile and various hotel entertainments do so, doubtless handicapped by the fact that Kelly refused to help him—on the ground that the justice department had prejudged matters; that one cabinet department is not the right outfit to investigate another cabinet department anyway, substantially as was argued in the Ballinger case.

At all events, Attorney General Mitchell has assured President Hoover that the Kelley insinuations have not a leg to stand on—and Mr. Hoover, like Mr. Taft in the Ballinger instance, is extremely indignant; as who wouldn't be?—taking it for granted that Mr. Wilbur's administration simply has been slandered.

It is up to Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota to furnish the narrative's next chapter. The Kelley case, as was the Ballinger case, is a land case. If it is agitated farther, it essentially is the task of the senate committee on public lands to agitate it, and Senator Nye is the committee's chairman.

The North Dakotan is an enterprising senator and exceptionally handy with a probe. He also has said already that the Kelley accusations appear to him to merit additional jabbing; he concurs in the judgment that, well meaning as a cabinet member may be, he is open to the suspicion of an unconsciously favorable bias in reviewing the official record of a fellow cabinet member.

Still, Nye has been too busy with campaign funds to have given the case more than a pretty casual once over this far.

As for other senators, they are scattered in every direction.

As the time approaches for congress to convene again, the oil shale question will assume increasing possibilities of interest—possibilities, not the certainty of it. There is no fun in probing if there is nothing for which to probe.

So say we all, R. V. A. There may be circumstances in this man's life that make his unfaithfulness to his wife excusable. We cannot know another person's heart, can we? So it's best not to throw any stones at him for what we think is his wrong doing. We feel we are strong enough to resist any temptation, but "pride often goeth before a fall," you know.

If we treat a supposed sinner just as we treat everyone else, with friendliness and consideration, trying, if we have a chance, to understand him and not criticize, we will have nothing to regret, no matter what happens. If, on the other hand, we are Pharisaical and adopt that "holier than thou" air, we are quite likely to be sorry. For safety's sake, if for no other, we should not judge.

Such a one may need an understanding friend to help him over a hard place and to avoid some temptation. It would be worth anything to us to be on such terms with a person as to have him come to us and to have the privilege of giving him that help, wouldn't it?

As to the hasty words you say you utter in moments of stress, R. V. A., once more, "aren't we all" likely to surprise and distance ourselves by saying, "beneath a smart hat, at such times? We can only try harder and harder to 'think before we speak'." To train ourselves in politeness and forbearance so that when under an emotional strain we automatically are polite and considerate.

Blue Dollie: So your boy friend wants to be married in two months and he's living in another town for that length of time? Shall you stay at home and wait for him, is your question.

Well, all I can say is, that if you can't trust him you'd better not be planning for the wedding. You can't be happily married to a man whose word you doubt. I can't make up your mind for you on that point. You know the man better than I do. You probably can tell during the first few weeks of his absence whether his love is cooling. If he writes infrequently and what letters he writes are not affectionate, he probably is changing his mind about that wedding in two months.

New Entertainer: Sorry, but your letter reached me too late to enable me to help you with your problem. However, in introducing people all any time you introduce the man to the woman, thus, "Mrs. So and So" let me present Mr. Thus and So." the older if there is a good deal of difference in their ages, and the same with the women.

"My Dear Virginia Lee: Last spring a young man treated me rather shabbily at a public affair and hurt me very much. However, since it was mostly my pride, I've forgotten and am ready to forgive 'Forget him,' as you say, is much easier said than done.

Of course this ended our good times together, but we still meet occasionally. He noticeably avoids me. Do you think he no longer cares for my friendship, or is it that he is ashamed and hasn't got backbone enough to apologize and ask to come back? I've made all kinds of excuses for him and when we meet am as friendly as possible. Kindly advise.

It may be that he is ashamed of the way he treated you and that you are no longer interested in him even though you try to act friendly. You've done your part, and unless he is interested enough to make advances and ask you to overlook his action and be friends, you can do no more.

I realize when I tell you young people to "forget," that it isn't easily done. Glad you like the column

Today's Recipes

Baked Pork Tenderloins—Trim and wipe tenderloins. Split them nearly through so they will lie flat. Make a highly seasoned stuffing and lay half of it on the tenderloins. Turn other half over the dressing and sew edges to hold in place. Bake 45 minutes, basting frequently with hot water and a little melted butter. Remove to platter and make gravy.

Suggestions

Use Sour Cream

Sour cream has many culinary uses. Pork tenderloin prepared with sour cream will delight the most exacting epicure. Place the tenderloin in a frying pan with a liberal amount of butter and chopped onion. Add salt and pepper. Baste with one-half cup sour cream and cook until tender.

To Stripe Furniture

Take your brush and make a wide stripe of the desired color for trimming. When dry, cover with strips of tape. Now cover entire piece of furniture with paint; when complete, pull off tape and you will have a perfect stripe. This is a very good way to stripe, as the foundation color does not show over the striping.

Kitchen Tools

Every kitchen should include a few tools of its very own. The list might include hammer, screwdriver, small pliers and tack puller. Something on which nuts could be cracked is also very useful. A box containing an assortment of tacks and nails should be kept with the tools.

Weights and Measures

Rag Rug Hint

In cutting old stockings for rugs, do not wind them, but lay them loose in a box and sew them as you wish to look soft and silky in a rug. Winding stretches them.

Clendening Aids Group of Canners

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

My heart would be indeed a hardened and obdurate organ if I failed to notice a letter which among many others comes to my desk. There arises from it a delicate perfume of old-world gentility.

"Des Moines, Iowa. 'A group of ladies who do not care to have their names appear in the newspaper would be obliged to you if you would tell in your health column the answer to this question. We hope it is of general interest.'

"Is there any harm in using a canning compound consisting of boric acid 95 per cent, salt 4.752 per cent, benzoate of soda .001 and moisture 237 at the rate of one-half teaspoonful to the pint of canned product?"

I pause to let that picture sink into my mind. It suggests odors from the kitchen door, billowing out on the sun-drenched October afternoon, and a little boy I used to know pausing to take a sniff. Things cannot be nearly as badly off in this republic as Mr. Stuart Chase and Mr. James Thurston Adams seem to fear when there still remain groups of ladies "who do not care to have their names appear in the paper," who are bending their thoughts upon preserves. Let the other sections note this missive came from the middle west.

The question raises the controversy which raged about Dr. Harvey Wiley and the Pure Food and Drug Act in President Roosevelt's administration. He contended that benzoate of soda was harmful. Few other experts agreed with him.

A later commission quoted approvingly by Dr. Otto Folin of Harvard in his book, "Preservatives and Other Chemicals in Foods," said: "Sodium benzoate in small doses (under five-tenths of a gram per day) mixed with the food is without deleterious or poisonous action and is not injurious to health."

Dr. Folin says: "Among all the preservatives of recent origin there is probably no one more likely to prove practically harmless than benzoic acid and benzoates." Of boric acid he says however that it "cannot be defended as an ingredient of human food."

If you will send to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Home Economics, for Bulletin 1471, published in 1926, called "Canning Fruits and Vegetables at Home," written by L. Stanley, you will find the safest advice about all kinds of home food preservative methods.

I simply add a broad hint to the effect that my favorite flavor in a jam or jelly has always been quince.

EDITOR'S NOTE: A new pamphlet, "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," by Dr. Clendening, can be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 E. Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlet on "Hygiene of Women" also is available for 10 cents.

How should one act toward a person whom she knows is not doing right? For instance, if you know a man or woman is unfaithful to husband or wife, how should you treat that person?

R. V. A., who, by the way, is a woman, writes me much about herself and asks me how she should treat a man whom she thinks she knows is making love to a married woman. She felt so "superior" to him, she says, when she met him and wondered whether she was right to so feel. "So many people are good because they've never been tempted," she says, "but given an opportunity to do wrong they fall headlong. I'm sufficiently unconcerned to wonder whether I'd be the same in like circumstances."

So say we all, R. V. A. There may be circumstances in this man's life that make his unfaithfulness to his wife excusable. We cannot know another person's heart, can we? ## NEW NEWSPRINT

The discovery that Georgia slash pine can be turned into acceptable newsprint is hailed by the Atlanta Constitution as of equal industrial importance with Whitney's invention of the cotton gin, a century or more ago. There is no doubt that it is of great potential value to Georgia and other southern states where slash pine can be cropped. The development of a newsprint industry would give these states a new source of income and would relieve their newspapers of dependence upon more remote sources of newsprint.

According to Dr. Charles H. Herty, a native of Georgia and a former president of the American Chemical society, there are 150,000,000 acres of cutover lands and abandoned farms in the south capable of reforestation. While a single acre is producing 200 mature trees, about 500 trees suitable for paper making will be thinned out. Slash pine reaches pulp-wood size in ten years, whereas it takes spruce sixty years. This means that six crops of slash pine can be cut to one crop of spruce.

Although it has been used for the manufacture of brown and yellow wrapping paper, slash pine heretofore has been regarded as containing too much resin for newsprint. That is not the case says Dr. Herty, who claims that slash pine contains no more resin than spruce does and that the accumulation of resin does not become troublesome until the trees are twenty-five years old, when they have already passed the newsprint stage. The extensive experiments he has carried out by courtesy of friendly paper mills convince Dr. Herty that Georgia slash pine and the long-leaf pine are qualified to challenge the supremacy of Canadian spruce as the basis of the newsprint industry on this continent.

Georgia's good fortune, if it materializes, will be shared by the entire country. At present American newspapers are considerably dependent for their newsprint upon foreign sources of supply—Canada, Newfoundland and northern Europe. The development of a new domestic supply would diminish that dependence. At the same time it would keep in this country the money that now is spent on newsprint outside it. Canada, whose forest resources are not inexhaustible, should welcome such an easement of the increasing drain upon them.

WORLD KEEPS MOVING

Prince Tokugawa, who is president of the house of peers of the Japanese diet, arrived in New York on his way to Washington the other day and was interviewed in the regular course of business by metropolitan newspaper men. What impressed at least one of the interviewers was the prince's "placidity." He found the New York sky line "charming," but added, "we are building such things not quite so high—but what does that matter." Reports of killings by head hunters he dismissed with the observation that "they have killed others before," and that there is no reason for alarm. As to earthquakes, he said, "there always have been earthquakes." Then somebody spoke of bread lines, and the prince remarked, "Ah, you mean unemployment. But, my friends, did you ever know of a country in recent years that had no problem like this? It does not matter, because it will be taken care of. Yes, doubtless it is a sad state of affairs, but remember, my friends, the world is not coming to an end."

Doubtless such an attitude of mind as these remarks indicate is partly a matter of temperament, but doubtless, also, it is in part a matter of self-schooling that might very well be emulated in this country. Prince Tokugawa's remark that the present industrial depression here and elsewhere is a sad state of affairs, but that the world is not coming to an end is a statement we all might take to heart, remembering that this viewpoint, quite typical of Japanese thought, does not prevent the government and leaders in Nippon from doing their utmost to alleviate and correct bad conditions.

Like an eclipse of the sun or of the moon the depression will pass, and we will emerge again soon into the glow of prosperity. Why not think about that?

HOW DID IT HAPPEN TO YOU?

How on earth did it happen? How did you get where you are? How did you explain it?

You were going to be carefree all your life, but you are not. You've had your troubles like everybody else. You've got into the ghastliest jams, and had to waste a lot of energy to get out of them. But somehow you aren't sorry.

You intended to be a shining success. You were going to nail your name to the heavens for all to see and to admire. . . . But your name isn't there at all. Only a few people know it, only a few know YOU. You aren't a failure, but you certainly are NOT what you intended to be.

You made up your mind to travel EVERYWHERE. You were going to South Africa, where the diamond mines are; to India, where the lovely Taj Mahal shines in the moonlight; to South America, and to that farthest Cape Horn, round which the pioneers beat in their trim clipper ships. . . . But you didn't go. You stayed at home and got a job and didn't see as much as you thought you'd see.

You were ambitious. You swore you would climb HIGH. You'd be selfish. You'd be different. You'd make no friends that could interfere with your mountain climbing. You wouldn't be soft, you'd be as hard as steel. You wouldn't marry and have children, and many a time you quoted to yourself: "Down to Gehenna and up to the throne, he travels the fastest who travels alone." That would be YOU—traveling alone and getting somewhere and getting everything you thought you wanted out of this life.

But here you are—with a job—and a wife or a husband—and a home—and children that adore you—and friends who like you and help you or ask to be helped—and you haven't gone THERE, and you haven't done THIS—and, just the same, you are HAPPY.

How did it happen? You haven't done what you wanted to do, you haven't gotten what you thought you ought to have. And yet, here you are! You were going by one road to happiness—but you went by another road entirely and still you came to happiness.

You thought you knew ALL about life, but it looks as if you didn't. Did you? And how can you

No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions, nor will the estimated value of old coins be given.

What are the names of the members of President Hoover's cabinet?

The members of President Hoover's cabinet are: Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state; Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury; Col. Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war; William D. Mitchell, attorney general; Walter F. Brown, postmaster general; Charles F. Adams, secretary of the navy; Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior; Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture; Robert P. Lamont, secretary of commerce; James John Davis, secretary of labor.

America's Cup

When and where did the American entry first capture the yachting trophy known as America's Cup from England? What is the birthplace of Sir Thomas Lipton? The American yacht America defeated the British yacht Aurora in a race in British waters for an international trophy on August 22, 1851. This was the first race for the trophy which has since come to be known as the America's Cup. Sir Thomas Lipton, the British knight commander of the Royal Victorian Order, Grand Officer of the Crown of Italy and Order of Saint Sava (Serbia), British tea merchant, and five times defeated challenger for the America's Cup, was born in Glasgow, Scotland, of Irish parentage, May 10, 1850.

Esperanto

Who invented the universal language "Esperanto" and what are the main characteristics of this language?

Esperanto, the most popular among proposed auxiliary international languages, was invented by a Russian physician, Zamenhof, whose first publication on the subject in 1887 was signed Dr. Esperanto (Hoped). This language consists of words that are common to all tongues, dropping those which are special to any one of them. In this language strict phonetic spelling is possible. The present spread of Esperanto would have been greater, perhaps, had it not been for the creation of new letters by its author, which made it difficult for newspapers and other publications, not possessing the special characters, to print extracts and articles in Esperanto.

Treaty of Ghent

When was the Treaty of Ghent signed and what war did it terminate?

The Treaty of Ghent between the United States and Great Britain was signed Dec. 24, 1814. This treaty ended the War of 1812, but failed to terminate any of the causes of the war, which were the impressment of American seamen, extension of the right to search United States war vessels, the "paper blockades" established by the British Orders in Council, and the alleged efforts of Great Britain to persuade the Indians of the northwest to attack the Americans.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK.—One of Tammany Town's advertising geniuses—a lad by the name of Reilly—works like a beaver at his chosen profession for nine months a year, saves a wad of dough, produces a play, loses every nickel and goes back to advertising again.

Producing plays, Reilly says, is better than betting on the ponies. You get more of a run for your money.

LOST ART

The modern stage has lost its old, romantic air. There are too many theatres and the profession has become so commercialized by writing men, that none of its mystery remains. Old Charles Frohman had the right idea. He reduced the publicity concerning his various stars to a minimum, with the result that when he did release an interview everyone read it and was interested. Compare theatrical publicity to day with that of former times and the result is startling. Under the modern method innermost secrets of an actor's life are exploited for advertising purposes, and if the busy press agent cannot pry into a performer's existence with results sufficiently dramatic he is not in the least deterred. What a busy theatrical press representative does not know he imagines.

MORE APPROACHABLE

The New Dispensation has forced the actor into closer proximity to the public. Gone are the exclusive boarding houses where none but members of the theatrical profession were welcome.

Today, stage folk are forced into big hotels, teeming with those who know nothing and care less about the show business.

A thousand and one things have intervened to eradicate the old air of mystery that surrounded the profession, responsible for the romance that grew up around it.

Present day competition is fast and furious. The movies have

ANOTHER ANNUAL HEART INSPECTION

DISMISSAL OF KELLEY NEARLY PARALLELS CASE OF 20 YEARS AGO

WASHINGTON.—It is 20 years, almost exactly, since Louis R. Glavis was kicked out of his post as chief of the U. S. general land office's field division to the accompaniment of a red hot denunciation from President William H. Taft—on account of charges made by Galvis against Mr. Taft's then secretary of the interior, Richard A. Ballinger.

The kicking of Ralph S. Kelley out of precisely the same chieftainship the other day, to the accompaniment of a red hot denunciation from President Herbert Hoover, on account of charges made by Kelley against interior department methods under Mr. Hoover's secretary, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur—well, it was not quite an anniversary performance, but it did not miss it by very many weeks.

Glavis accused Secretary Ballinger of improprieties in the granting of government-owned Alaskan coal leases to big, unduly favored fuel interests, in Secretary Wilbur's department. Kelley accuses the interior hands, of improprieties in the granting of government-owned Colorado oil shale areas to big petroleum interests.

President Taft did not act in Glavis' case without investigation. He referred Glavis' story to his attorney general, George W. Wickersham, now chairman of President Hoover's law enforcement commission. Mr. Wickersham assigned one of his assistants to dig into the matter thoroughly and soon the justice department was able to report to the White House that the land office chief's tale of Alaskan coal land irregularities was without a particle of evidence to substantiate it.

Naturally Glavis' dismissal from the federal service followed immediately and it was not surprising that the president, unquestionably in all sincerity, spoke mightily bitterly concerning the man who had so unjustifiably (as he saw it) attacked one of his cabinet members.

The case did not end there, however. Several senators, complaining that an investigation of one cabinet member (the secretary of the interior) by another cabinet member (the attorney general) did not satisfy them, forced a congressional inquiry.

It did not terminate as many folk recalling the "Ballinger scandal," may think it did—in a finding against the interior secretary.

On the contrary, a majority of the committee of lawmakers voted to exonerate him, but there was an adverse minority—and just at that juncture the G. O. P. (Mr. Taft's and Mr. Ballinger's party) lost control of the house of representatives, which, if impeachment proceedings are to be begun, is the body named by the constitution to begin them, though the senate tries them.

Secretary Ballinger resigned the day before the new congress met.

Like President Taft in the Ballinger case, President Hoover by no means turned down Ralph S. Kelley's charges against his secretary of the interior's administration without a hearing.

He referred them to Attorney General William D. Mitchell. Mr. Mitchell assigned Assistant Attorney General Seth W. Richardson to go to the bottom of the charges and it can safely be assumed that Richardson has done his utmost to creating a tremendous drain on the "legitimate" stage are not the only factors. Among others may be listed dance halls, cabarets, night clubs, the radio, the automobile and various hotel entertainments do so, doubtless handicapped by the fact that Kelly refused to help him—on the ground that the justice department had prejudged matters; that one cabinet department is not the right outfit to investigate another cabinet department anyway, substantially as was argued in the Ballinger case.

At all events, Attorney General Mitchell has assured President Hoover that the Kelley insinuations have not a leg to stand on—and Mr. Hoover, like Mr. Taft in the Ballinger instance, is extremely indignant; as who wouldn't be—taking it for granted that Mr. Wilbur's administration simply has been slandered.

It is up to Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota to furnish the narrative's next chapter.

The Kelley case, as was the Ballinger case, is a land case.

If it is agitated farther, it essentially is the task of the senate committee on public lands to agitate it, and Senator Nye is the committee's chief man.

The North Dakotan is an enterprising senator and exceptionally handy with a probe. He also has said already that the Kelley accusations appear to him to merit additional jabbing; he concurs in the judgment that, well meaning as a cabinet member may be, he is open to the suspicion of an unconsciously favorable bias in reviewing the official record of a fellow cabinet member.

Still, Nye has been too busy with campaign funds to have given the

Kelley case more than a pretty casual once over this far.

As for other senators, they are scattered in every direction. As the time approaches for congress to convene again, the oil shale question will assume increasing possibilities of interest—possibilities, not the certainty of it. There is no fun in probing if there is nothing for which to probe.

Bake the potatoes until thoroughly done, break open and put back in oven for a few minutes to steam. Make the milk gravy with one large tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour, one cup milk, season well and serve over potatoes.

Today's Recipes

Baked Pork Tenderloins—Trim and wipe tenderloins. Split them nearly through so they will lie flat. Make a highly seasoned stuffing and lay half of it on the tenderloins. Turn other half over the dressing and sew edges to hold in place. Bake 45 minutes, basting frequently with hot water and a little melted butter. Remove to platter and make gravy.

Suggestions

Use Sour Cream
Sour cream has many culinary uses. Pork tenderloin prepared with sour cream will delight the most exacting epicure. Place the tenderloin in a frying pan with a liberal amount of butter and chopped onion. Add salt and pepper. Baste with one-half cup sour cream and cook until tender.

To Stripe Furniture

Take your brush and make a wide stripe of the desired color for trimming. When dry cover entire piece of furniture with paint; when complete, pull off tape and you will have a perfect stripe. This is a very good way to stripe, as the foundation color does not show over the striping.

Kitchen Tools

Every kitchen should include a few tools of its very own. The list might include hammer, screwdriver, small pliers and tack puller. Something on which nuts could be cracked is also very useful. A box containing an assortment of tacks and nails should be kept with the tools.

Weights and Measures

Four cups flour, 1 pound; 1 saltspoon, 3-4 teaspoon; 16 tablespoons, 1 cup; 2 cups, 1 pint; 2 pints, 1 quart; 3 teaspoons, 1 tablespoon; 4 cups, 1 quart.

Rag Rug Hint

In cutting old stockings for rugs, do not wind them, but lay them loose in a box and sew them as you wish to crochet them. This way they look soft and silky in a rug. Winding stretches them.

Clendening Aids Group of Cannery

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

My heart would be indeed a hardened and obdurate organ if I failed to notice a letter which among many others comes to my desk. There arises from it a delicate perfume of old-world gentility.

"Des Moines, Iowa.
"A group of ladies who do not care to have their names appear in the newspaper would be obliged to you if you would tell in your health column the answer to this question. We hope it is of general interest."

"Is there any harm in using a canning compound consisting of boric acid 95 per cent, salt 4.762 per cent, benzoate of soda .001 and moisture .237 at the rate of one-half teaspoon to the pint of canned product?"

I pause to let that picture sink into my mind. It suggests odors from the kitchen door, billowing out on the sundrenched October afternoon, and a little boy I used to know pausing to take a sniff. Things cannot be nearly as badly off in this republic as Mr. Stuart Chase and Mr. James Thurston Adams seem to fear when there still remain groups of ladies "who do not care to have their names appear in the paper," who are bending their thoughts upon preserves. Let the other sections note this missive came from the middle west.

The question raises the controversy which raged about Dr. Harvey Wiley and the Pure Food and Drug Act in President Roosevelt's administration. He contended that benzoate of soda was harmful. Few other experts agreed with him.

A later commission quoted approvingly by Dr. Otto Polin of Harvard in his book, "Preservatives and Other Chemicals in Foods," said:

"Sodium benzoate in small doses (under five-tenths of a gram per day) mixed with the food is without deleterious or poisonous action and is not injurious to health."

Dr. Polin says: "Among all the preservatives of recent origin there probably no one more likely to prove practically harmless than benzoic acid and benzoates."

Of boric acid he says however that it "cannot be defended as an ingredient of human food."

If you will send to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Home Economics, for Bulletin 1435, published in 1926, called "Canning Fruits and Vegetables at Home," written by L. Stanley, you will find the safest advice about all kinds of home food preservative methods.

I simply add a broad hint to the effect that my favorite flavor in a jam or jelly has always been quince.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A new pamphlet, "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," by Dr. Clendening, can be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 E. ## Treat Erring With Friendliness

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

How should one act toward a person whom she knows is not doing right? For instance, if you know a man or woman is unfaithful to husband or wife, how should you treat that person?

R. V. A., who by the way is a woman, writes me much about herself and asks me how she should treat a man whom she thinks she knows is making love to a married woman. She felt so "superior" to him, she says, when she met him, and wonders whether she was right to so feel. "So many people are good because they've never been tempted," she says, "but given an opportunity to do wrong they fall headlong. I'm sufficiently unconcerned to wonder whether I'd be the same in like circumstances."

So say we all, R. V. A. There may be circumstances in this man's life that make his unfaithfulness to his wife excusable. We cannot know another person's heart, can we? So it's best not to throw any stones at him for what we think is his wrong doing. We feel we are strong enough to resist any temptation, but "pride often goeth before a fall," you know.

If we treat a supposed sinner just as we treat everyone else, with friendliness and consideration, trying, if we have a chance, to understand him and not criticize, we will have nothing to regret, no matter what happens. If, on the other hand, we are Pharisae and adopt that "holier than thou" air, we are quite likely to be sorry. For safety's sake, if for no other, we should not judge.

Such a one may need an understanding friend to help him over a hard place and to avoid some temptation. It would be worth anything to be on such terms with a person as to have him come to us and to have the privilege of giving him that help, wouldn't it?

As to the hasty words you say you utter in moments of stress, R. V. A., once more, "aren't we all" likely to surprise and distress ourselves with hasty and rude language at such times? We can only get harder and harder to "think before we speak."

To train ourselves in politeness and forbearance so that when under an emotional strain we automatically are polite and considerate.

Blue Dollie: So your boy friend wants to be married in two months and he's living in another town for that length of time? Shall you stay at home and wait for him, is your question.

Well, all I can say is, that if you can't trust him you'd better not be planning for the wedding. You can't be happily married to a man whose word you doubt. I can't make up your mind for you on that point. You know the man better than I do. You probably can tell during the first few weeks of his absence whether his love is cooling. If he writes infrequently and what letters he writes are not affectionate, he probably is changing his mind about that wedding in two months.

New Entertainer: Sorry, but your letter reached me too late to enable me to help you with your problem. However, in introducing people at any time you introduce the man to the woman, thus, "Mrs. So and So, let me present Mr. Thus and So," the older if there is a good deal of difference in their ages and the same with the women.

"My Dear Virginia Lee: Last spring a young man treated me rather shabbily at a public affair and hurt me very much. However, since he was mostly my pride, I've forgotten and am ready to forgive. 'Forget him,' as you say, is much easier said than done. "Of course this ended our good times together, but we still meet occasionally. He noticeably avoids me. Do you think he no longer cares for my friendship, or is it that he is ashamed and hasn't got backbone enough to apologize and ask to come back? I've made all kinds of excuses for him and when we meet am as friendly as possible. Kindly advise. Still Smile"

It may be that he is ashamed of the way he treated you and thinks you are no longer interested in him even though you try to act friendly. You've done your part, and unless he is interested enough to make advances and ask you to overlook his action and be friends, you can't do more.

I realize when I tell you young people to "forget," that it isn't easily done. Glad you like the column.

Can't Hide Locks This Season

By GLADYS GLAD

The sly young miss who thinks that she can fool the public this fall by concealing her neglected tresses beneath a smart hat, is going to find it rather difficult to put her little plan into execution. For the shallow crowns of the new fall chapeau have been designed to cover only a minimum portion of the head. Dame Fashion has decreed that the hair once again shall be displayed in all its glory.

The new hats are worn well back on the head, revealing a broad expanse of brow, and a profusion of winsome, coquettish curls. Some of the hats are cut to display curls at the sides. Others reveal soft ringlets at the nape of the neck. All in all, midday is going to find it most difficult to conceal her locks during the coming season.

And she is going to find the condition of her coiffure just as important in achieving smartness as the choice of her dress.

Since, therefore, the hat is to attain such prominence, we must make it radiantly lovely—an asset, and not a detriment to our appearance. And many of us will be forced to do a lot of reconditioning. For as the summer season, the season of outdoor sports and amusements draws to a close, many women will find that their formerly sleek and glossy tresses have assumed a dry, harsh, unkempt appearance, due to overexposure to wind, water and the strong rays of the sun. These elements tend to change not only the texture, but also the color of the hair.

Dry, brittle hair, dandruff, thinning, scraggly locks, dull, faded tresses will all have to be restored to normal health and loveliness before a smart chic appearance can be achieved. And it isn't as expensive a procedure as it may sound. For the hot oil treatments, the appropriate shampoo, the special rinses, and the various methods of stimulating and nourishing the scalp are all fully outlined in my "Beauty Culture" booklet. If you can follow instructions, you can be your own scalp specialist. And you can give your hair the soft, shining beauty it was intended to have.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

The worm was a long time in turning but when it finally did turn Friday it turned completely around. In other words or in the same words, Xenia Central High has won a football game. Be it ever so humble there is nothing like a victory and the Buccaneers triumph over Troy by the stunning margin of 25 to 7 was a red letter victory, as decisive as it was astonishing.

We were just on the verge of recommending that the Bucs take a correspondence course in football; that they send for our free booklet (it's free, no obligation).

If you want an analysis of just how the Bucs did it, Coach Pinky Wilson has told us not in confidence that he will be in his office every day from 9:15 a. m. to 9:30 or 9:40. All questions on how the miracle was accomplished will be answered to the best of his ability. Better make it a quarter of ten.

The Democratic landslide over the country at last Tuesday's election proved conclusively that anything can happen, and Xenia grid-derers may have had a similar feeling—that anything is possible, and if so, why not a football victory?

The Buccaneers triumph, although it was its first in the Miami Valley League race this season (and also for the last two seasons) elevated Xenia into a three-way tie with Troy and Sidney for third place in the league standing, with probability the Bucs may finish second in the final reckoning.

Xenia, Troy and Sidney have each won one league game against two defeats, while Xenia and Troy also have the games on their record.

The Bucs meet one more league opponent this fall—Sidney. Should Xenia win this game it would have a 500 rating and the second place Miami Valley eleven, should it lose to Piqua this week, as it probably will, would also drop down to a 500 percentage with one more game to play.

Credit for the first Xenia victory of the 1930 season may be spread about equally among the Blue and White jerseyed players. They all did their part, whether on offense or defense. Bell, Adair, Kinsey and Dalton sparkled in the backfield, but they had fine interference and the line was opening up holes for them. Spahr and Frazer played particularly fine games on the line. The Xenia line was out-charging the Trojan forward wall and the Bucs were tackling low and hard all the time, in marked contrast to Troy's tackling, which was always high and usually around the neck.

Cree Cross, regular Troy center, who has been on the injured list, did not start the game. He replaced Akers about the middle of the first quarter and on the very first play after being inserted into the contest, his injured leg went bad on him and he had to be helped off the field, being replaced by McConnell, who starred in Troy's recent game with Miamisburg.

Carlton Lunsford, local student at the University of Cincinnati, who has been playing regular at end on the Bearcat football team this season, was in town Friday limping around with the aid of a cane. During the Cincinnati-Denison game a few weeks ago, in which he played one of the star roles in the first Bearcat football victory over Denison in sixteen years, he broke a blood vessel in the left leg and was in a hospital for three days. He hopes to get back into a uniform soon as it will be necessary for him to participate in four more quarters in order to earn his letter this fall.

Xenia Beats Troy 25 To 7 And No Kiddin'!

SCORING PUNCH PENT UP FOR TWO YEARS LOOSED AGAINST ENEMY

First Miami Valley League Victory In Two Years Sweet To Buccaneers; Visitors Bewildered By Fast Blue And White Running Attack

BY PHIL FRAME

VICTORY on the gridiron, which has been only an illusion, a mirage, a dream and other well known adjectives for Xenia Central High School since the season's opener last year, is now a reality. Rub your eyes and look at this—Xenia Central, 25; Troy High, 7. No it's not a typographical error, it's the plain unvarnished truth so help me Hannah!

Sick and tired of being the goat, the Buccaneers, transformed apparently overnight into a smooth-functioning grid machine, stormed the walls of Troy and like those legendary heroes of Greece scaled the hitherto unattainable heights at Cox Field Friday afternoon.

It was altogether a momentous occasion for was it not Xenia's first Miami Valley League victory in the last two years? Was it not the first Buccaneer victory of the current season? Was it not the first football triumph since Xenia beat the O. S. and S. O. Home in the opening game of the 1929 season? The answer to each of these questions is the same—it was.

The Bucs not only underwent a metamorphosis (what ever that is) out there on Cox Field Friday but they left not the shadow of a doubt as to their superiority over this in and out Trojan eleven, which has been unbeatable one week and a pushover the next. It was a pushover all right Friday. The margin of four touchdowns to one shows that.

The Bucs got the jump on their opponents by registering two rapid-fire touchdowns in the first quarter and another early in the second period. Nineteen points rolled up with such undue haste by a team which had previously lost fourteen straight games before it earned a draw last week, would be enough to demoralize any eleven—it certainly was enough to bewilder the Trojans.

Soon after the opening kick-off when a Troy punt was grounded on Xenia's forty-four, Adair rounded end for twelve yards and Fullback Robert Kinsey, erstwhile tackle, blossomed out as a ball carrier of distinct promise by breaking through the line, dodging the secondary and scampering forty-five yards across the goal line. His place kick was blocked but the Bucs were on their way, going places and doing things.

Shortly afterward elusive Birch Bell, playing safety position, gathered in a Troy punt and aided by fine blocking raced up the side line for seventy-five yards and another marker. He was almost forced out of bounds on Troy's forty-yard stripe but missed stepping out by inches and continued on his way with Trojan players in hopeless pursuit. Kinsey attempted a drop kick for the point but without success.

Just before the period ended another Troy punt went out of bounds on Xenia's twenty-five, and from this point the Bucs drove onward and upward, two yard thrusts by Bell made it first down on his own thirty-six as the quarter closed.

Starting the second period Xenia drew a fifteen-yard penalty but Adair gained this yardage back and Bell swept around left end for thirty-one more yards, nearly getting away entirely. A five yard plunge by Adair and three bucks by Dalton made it first down on Troy's twenty. Kinsey, on an intricate double criss-cross play, squirmed fifteen yards to the five yard line and Dalton lunged over the line on two spinner plays. Bell started out on end run for the elusive extra point but was spilled before he got in motion.

The lone Troy touchdown of the game came in the first play after the next kick-off when Calloway, speedy colored halfback, strode through an opening in the right side of Xenia's line and ran fifty-eight yards unmolested for the score. He then plunged for the added point.

Xenia kicked off to open the second half and Ross, in trying to evade tacklers, ran backwards fifteen yards to his own fifteen, where he was spilled. May kicked to his own thirty-nine. Bell picked up five and Adair skirted right end for fourteen to the twenty but a long penalty for hooking followed and Price was forced to kick, punting accurately out of bounds on the five-yard line. Troy kicked, apparently out of danger, but Bell, by cleverly reversing his field, carried the ball back twenty-five yards to the Troy fourteen, putting Xenia again in the scoring zone. Adair made four and Dalton three and Adair, on a reverse play, dodged seven yards over the goal line. This time Kinsey added the point from placement.

Not satisfied with twenty-five points, the Bucs kept hammering away in quest of more and twice progressed. Troy's three-yard line in the fourth period without being able to score again. Each time the ball was lost on downs.

Late in the third quarter Xenia began a march from its own twenty-six, the feature of which was Bell's forty-yard sweep around end. Three line plays made it first down on Troy's thirty, then came a peculiar play in which Adair and Bell collaborated in a twenty-yard run. The former went around end for fifteen and just as he was about to be tackled he suddenly passed the ball backward to Bell, who was hovering near, and Birch added five more. Kinsey added one and Dalton four as the quarter closed. Bell picked up two and then missed first down by inches, the ball going to Troy on the three-yard line.

Fullback Ross kicked out from behind the goal line to his thirty-two and the Bucs began another parade. Adair accounted for five, Dalton four and Adair four more. Kinsey and Bell made free again. Xenia drew a five-yard penalty but this was offset when Bell threw and completed the first pass attempted by either team up to this

HOME CADETS BEAT CEDARVILLE HIGH 7-0 AFTER BLOCKING PUNT

Converting a blocked punt into the only touchdown of the game in the third quarter, the O. S. and S. O. Home football team downed Cedarville High School by a margin of 7 to 0 in a nip and tuck struggle on the Home gridiron Friday afternoon.

The only break of the game occurred when the cadets blocked and recovered a Cedarville kick on the visitors' twenty-seven yard line. Three line plays gained a first down and after two more line thrusts had added about four more yards, Quarterback Yowell laterally passed to Fullback McKinley, who sprinted twelve yards across the goal line. Wolfe, center, added the extra point with a nice place kick.

HOME CONSULTING STAFF ELECTS NEW OFFICERS AT MEET

Dr. Walter Simpson, pathologist and diagnostician at Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, was elected dean of the volunteer medical and surgical consulting staff of the O. S. and S. O. Home, at the annual banquet-meeting at the institution Friday. He succeeds Dr. O. B. Kneisley, Dayton. Dr. A. C. Messenger, resident physician at the Home, was re-elected secretary.

The volunteer staff is composed of twenty-six physicians and dentists, from all parts of the state, twenty-three staff members representing eleven counties attended the meeting.

Following his custom, the staff conducted a clinical meeting Friday morning at the Home hospital, when more than twenty-five cases were examined, diseases diagnosed and an outline of treatment for the future recommended.

The clinic was followed by a business meeting at which brief talks were made by Captain Harold Hays, superintendent; Col. D. H. Pond, Cleveland, member of the board of trustees; Miss Jane Bailey, Wapakoneta, secretary of the trustee board, and several other staff members. Dr. J. B. Rudeman, Dayton, skin specialist, was elected an additional member of the staff.

Covers for fifty-three persons, including the staff members and their wives, a number of guests and members of the trustee board were laid at a dinner at 1 o'clock when Captain and Mrs. Hays acted as host and hostess to the guests. Dr. Kneisley, the retiring dean, presided as toastmaster at the speaking program which followed. Captain Hays delivered a welcoming address and Col. Pond, Miss Bailey, Dr. B. R. McClellan, Xenia surgeon, and Representative R. D. Williamson were called upon for short talks.

The consulting staff also endorsed a number of projects for the welfare of the hospital, including the trustee board's action in providing one more registered nurse for night duty, its authorization for employment of an interne and a suggestion that a recording clerk be obtained to assist in keeping more detailed records.

GREENVILLE LOSES WHILE SIDNEY WINS NON-LEAGUE GAMES

Team That Tied Xenia Is Defeated By Eaton High

Two Miami Valley League football teams, playing non-league opponents Friday afternoon, won and lost, Sidney High walking all over Versailles, 25 to 0 and Greenville High losing to Eaton, 6 to 0. Sidney, in registering its second victory of the current season, scored a touchdown in the second period, two more in the third and another in the final quarter. Bonham accounted for two markers and Douglass turned in the longest run of the game.

The only touchdown of the Greenville-Eaton game came in the second period when Eaton took the ball on its own eighteen-yard line and marched down the field for the marker. Lucas started the drive with a thirty-five yard run and ended it with a sprint around end from the five-yard line for the score.

In the third period Greenville progressed to Eaton's eighteen-yard line, where the march was stopped, and Eaton staged a counter attack that was ended on the five-yard mark. Greenville gained 138 yards from Cincinnati Friday afternoon with a 25 to 0 victory to its credit over Glendale High. A return game is booked for the latter part of next week at Cox Field. Evart Roberts, East High coach, has developed a scrappy team this season and his charges have hopes of going through their brief season undefeated.

EAST HIGH DEFEATS CINCINNATI TEAM

Playing its first regularly scheduled game of the season, East High School's football eleven, organized later than usual this fall, returned from Cincinnati Friday afternoon with a 25 to 0 victory to its credit over Glendale High. A return game is booked for the latter part of next week at Cox Field. Evart Roberts, East High coach, has developed a scrappy team this season and his charges have hopes of going through their brief season undefeated.

WILMINGTON JINX STILL GOOD; CEDARVILLE DEFEATED 13 TO 0

MERCHANTS TO PLAY DAYTON SHAMROCKS SUNDAY AFTERNOON

With an undefeated record to preserve, the Xenia Merchants semi-pro football eleven will strive for its third straight victory at the expense of the husky South Park Shamrocks eleven of Dayton in the first home game of the season Sunday afternoon at Ringer's Cincinnati Ave. Park. The kick-off will be at 2:30 o'clock.

Having defeated the Springfield Bulldogs and the Dayton Guards on successive Sundays by scores of 19 to 0 and 7 to 6, respectively, the local independent team is confident of making a good showing in the eyes of local fans Sunday.

It is probable that Joe Smittle, who has been playing a tackle position most of the time, will be shifted to the backfield Sunday, and with Joe Anderson, "Bulldog" Smith and Knickerbocker as his running mates, the Xenia offensive should be strengthened considerably.

Coach Lou McCoy is asking that all members of the squad report for a brief practice Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Falling to conquer a thirteen-year jinx, Cedarville College for the second time this season was vanquished by Wilmington College, 13 to 0 in a return football game on the Cedarville gridiron Friday afternoon.

The Quaker eleven registered touchdowns in the second and third periods, the first marker on an eighteen-yard sweep around right end by Halfback Fox and the second climaxing a parade down the field. Halfback Putnam finally plunging over from the six-inch mark. Weimer kicked goal after the second touchdown.

Cedarville gained ground consistently throughout the game but only in midfield. No fewer than three times did the Borstmen sustain sixty-yard marches down the field, backing Wilmington up with in the shadow of its own goal, but on each occasion the Yellow Jackets lacked that vital punch so necessary when within the scoring zone.

Fullback Irons played a spectacular offensive game for Cedarville. He was unstoppable on line plunges most of the time but when close to the goal he found Wilmington's line like a stone wall and could not penetrate it.

Earlier in the season Wilmington defeated Cedarville, 20 to 0. In the last thirteen years Cedarville has never been able to register a victory over its oldest rival in football, although the Borstmen did manage to hold Wilmington to a scoreless tie in the first two games played last season.

Next Saturday Cedarville has a return game with Urbana Junior College at Urbana. The two teams played a 6 to 6 tie at Cedarville several weeks ago.

Wants Citizenship

Liberals throughout the country are interesting themselves in the fight of Prof. Douglas Clyde Macintosh of Yale university, above, for citizenship. He was denied citizenship because he refused to subscribe to the doctrine of "my country, right or wrong." John W. Davis, former Democratic presidential candidate, who is one of his attorneys, sees the case as having "far reaching importance."

FRAMED

The worm was a long time in turning but when it finally did turn Friday it turned completely around. In other words or in the same words, Xenia Central High has won a football game. Be it ever so humble there is nothing like a victory and the Buccaneers triumph over Troy by the stunning margin of 25 to 7 was a red letter victory, as decisive as it was astonishing.

We were just on the verge of recommending that the Bucs take a correspondence course in football; that they send for our free book-let (it's free, no obligation).

If you want an analysis of just how the Bucs did it, Coach Pinky Wilson has told us not in confidence that he will be in his office every day from 9:15 a. m. to 9:30 or 9:40. All questions on how the miracle was accomplished will be answered to the best of his ability. Better make it a quarter of ten.

The Democratic landslide over the country at last Tuesday's election proved conclusively that anything can happen, and Xenia grid-ers may have had a similar feeling—that anything is possible, and if so, why not a football victory?

The Buccaneers triumph, although it was its first in the Miami Valley League race this season (and also for the last two seasons) elevated Xenia into a three-way tie with Troy and Sidney for third place in the league standing, with probability the Bucs may finish second in the final reckoning.

Xenia, Troy and Sidney have each won one league game against two defeats, while Xenia and Troy also have the games on their record.

The Bucs meet one more league opponent this fall—Sidney. Should Xenia win this game it would have a 500 rating and the second place Miami-Buc eleven, should it lose to Piqua this week, as it probably will, would also drop down to a 500 percentage with one more game to play.

Credit for the first Xenia victory of the 1930 season may be spread about equally among the Blue and White jerseyed players. They all did their part, whether on offense or defense. Bell, Adair, Kinsey and Dalton sparkled in the backfield, but they had fine interference and the line was opening up holes for them. Spahr and Frazer played particularly fine games on the line. The Xenia line was out-charging the Trojan forward wall and the Bucs were tackling low and hard all the time, in marked contrast to Troy's tackling, which was always high and usually around the neck.

Cree Cress, regular Troy center, who has been on the injured list, did not start the game. He replaced Akers about the middle of the first quarter and on the very first play after being inserted into the contest, his injured leg went bad on him and he had to be helped off the field, being replaced by McConnell, who starred in Troy's recent game with Miami-Buc.

Carlton Lunsford, local student at the University of Cincinnati, who has been playing regular at end on the Bearcat football team this season, was in town Friday limping around with the aid of a cane. During the Cincinnati-Denison game a few weeks ago, in which he played one of the star roles in the first Bearcat football victory over Denison in sixteen years, he broke a blood vessel in the left leg and was in a hospital for three days. He hopes to get back into a uniform soon as it will be necessary for him to participate in four more quarters in order to earn his letter this fall.

HOME CADETS BEAT CEDARVILLE HIGH 7-0 AFTER BLOCKING PUNT

Converting a blocked punt into the only touchdown of the game in the third quarter, the O. S. and S. O. Home football team downed Cedarville High School by a margin of 7 to 0 in a nip and tuck struggle on the Home gridiron Friday afternoon.

The only break of the game occurred when the cadets blocked and recovered a Cedarville kick on the visitors' twenty-seven yard line. Three line plays gained a first down and after two more line thrusts had added about four more yards, Quarterback Yowell lateral passed to Fullback McKinley, who sprinted twelve yards across the goal line. Wolfe, center, added the extra point with a nice place kick.

During the greater part of the game the play was mainly in Cedarville territory and the visiting team never had a good scoring chance. The cadets twice penetrated inside the Cedarville ten-yard line, once in the second period and again in the fourth quarter, without scoring.

On both occasions the ball was lost on downs.

The Home made nine first downs against seven for Cedarville, completed two out of five passes and intercepted two, while Cedarville completed two out of seven and intercepted one.

McKinley and Snyder were the biggest ground gainers for the cadets and Harris was the main spring of Cedarville's offense, several times getting away for substantial gains.

Falling to conquer a thirteen-year jinx, Cedarville College for the second time this season was vanquished by Wilmington College, 13 to 0 in a return football game on the Cedarville gridiron Friday afternoon.

The Quaker eleven registered touchdowns in the second and third periods, the first marker on an eighteen-yard sweep around right end by Halfback Fox and the second climaxing a parade down the field. Halfback Putnam finally plunging over from the six-inch mark. Weiner kicked goal after the second touchdown.

Cedarville gained ground consistently throughout the game but only in midfield. No fewer than three times did the Borstmen sustain sixty-yard marches down the field, backing Wilmington up with in the shadow of its own goal, but on each occasion the Yellow Jackets lacked that vital punch so necessary when within the scoring zone.

Fullback Irons played a spectacular offensive game for Cedarville. He was untouchable on line plunges most of the time but when close to the goal he found Wilmington's line like a stone wall and could not penetrate it.

Earlier in the season Wilmington defeated Cedarville, 20 to 0. In the last thirteen years Cedarville has never been able to register a victory over its oldest rival in football, although the Borstmen did manage to hold Wilmington to a scoreless tie in the first two games played last season.

Next Saturday Cedarville has a return game with Urbana Junior College at Urbana. The two teams played a 6 to 6 tie at Cedarville several weeks ago.

HOME CONSULTING STAFF ELECTS NEW OFFICERS AT MEET

Dr. Walter Simpson, pathologist and diagnostician at Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, was elected dean of the volunteer medical and surgical consulting staff of the O. S. and S. O. Home, at the annual banquet-meeting at the Institution Friday. He succeeds Dr. O. B. Kneisley, Dayton. Dr. A. C. Messinger, resident physician at the Home, was re-elected secretary.

The volunteer staff is composed of twenty-six physicians and dentists, from all parts of the state, of twenty-three staff members representing eleven counties attended the meeting.

Following its custom, the staff conducted a clinical meeting Friday morning at the Home hospital, when more than twenty-five cases were examined, diseases diagnosed and an outline of treatment for the future recommended.

The clinic was followed by a business meeting at which brief talks were made by Captain Harold Hays, superintendent; Col. D. H. Pond, Cleveland, member of the board of trustees; Miss Jane Bailey, Wapakoneta, secretary of the trustee board, and several other staff members. Dr. J. B. Rudeman, Dayton, skin specialist, was elected an additional member of the staff.

Covers for fifty-three persons, including the staff members and their wives, a number of guests and members of the trustee board were laid at a dinner at 1 o'clock when Captain and Mrs. Hays acted as host and hostess to the guests. Dr. Kneisley, the retiring dean, presided as toastmaster at the speaking program which followed. Captain Hays delivered a welcoming address and Col. Pond, Miss Bailey, Dr. B. R. McClellan, Xenia surgeon, and Representative R. D. Williamson were called upon for short talks.

The consulting staff also endorsed a number of projects for the welfare of the hospital, including the trustee board's action in providing one more registered nurse for night duty, its authorization for employment of an interne and a suggestion that a recording clerk be obtained to assist in keeping more detailed records.

GREENVILLE LOSES WHILE SIDNEY WINS NON-LEAGUE GAMES

Team That Tied Xenia Is Defeated By Eaton High

Two Miami Valley League football teams playing non-league opponents Friday afternoon, won and lost, Sidney High walking all over Versailles, 25 to 0 and Greenville High losing to Eaton, 6 to 0.

Sidney, in registering its second victory of the current season, scored a touchdown in the second period, two more in the third and another in the final quarter. Bonham accounted for two markers and Douglass turned in the longest run of the game.

The only touchdown of the Greenville-Eaton game came in the second period when Eaton took the ball on its own eighteen-yard line and marched down the field for the marker. Lucas started the drive with a thirty-five yard run and ended it with a sprint around end from the five-yard line for the score.

In the third period Greenville progressed to Eaton's eighteen-yard line, where the march was stopped, and Eaton staged a counter attack that was ended on the five-yard mark. Greenville gained 188 yards from scrimmage to 166 yards for Eaton and made eight first downs as compared with Eaton's seven.

Playing its first regularly scheduled game of the season, East High School's football eleven, organized later than usual this fall, returned from Cincinnati Friday afternoon with a 28 to 0 victory to its credit over Glendale High. A return game is booked for the latter part of next week at Cox Field. Evart Roberts, East High coach, has developed a scrappy team this season and his charges have hopes of going through their brief season undefeated.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The week-end market faced another cloud-burst of selling in the utility stocks and specialties, as the result of which prices in this section of the market were forced to new low levels for the year. Railroad stocks were also under severe pressure, with comparatively little buying demand. But the industrials received better support and in some cases were able to stem the tide of liquidation and to close the short session with fractional gains.

Officials at Paramount say that Marlene Dietrich, Josef Von Sternberg's discovery, will be the sensation of the year in "Morocco."

For the German actress' second, Sid Grauman, Walter Kelly, Winfield Sheehan, Gilbert Adrian, John Ford, Jack Warner, Harry Rapf, Abraham Lehr, William Collier, Sr., Fred Niblo and Carl Laemmle, Jr. The following instructions accompanied the invitations: "Gentlemen are requested to wear military, naval or aviation costumes, if possible. Ladies are requested to wear Red Cross, canteen or ambulance uniforms, or costumes typical of nations that participated in the World War."

They Couldn't Know

BACK IN 1818 the greatest newspaper of the day declared that the world had reached the limit of human expansion. It even went further, saying that there weren't enough supplies in the world to support further growth of population.

The mind of 1818 couldn't conceive of the miracles that human ingenuity would perform during the twentieth century. It couldn't imagine the wonders that would be wrought by new agricultural methods and modern manufacturing genius. It was ignorant of transportation as we know it, or the progressive sales methods of today. It could not see the vital part that would be played by advertising.

Even today there are some who fail to realize what an important factor advertising has become. Advertising is as much a part of today's life as electricity, antiseptic surgery or automobiles. It keeps us up to date on the many things we need in order to live profitable, happy and useful lives. It presents for our approval articles of all kinds and for all purposes. The requirements of each member of the family are met by advertised offers of good merchandise to provide value.

The advertisements save time, money and effort for those who read them and follow their guidance. They are practical guarantees of satisfaction.

nine each year. Thus, if the usually inexorable law of averages is maintained for the next two years, control of the new congress will continue to flit from party to party and be beyond human manipulation or calculation.

In this situation, which is without parallel or precedent in history, the leaders of both parties frankly do not know yet what to do. In the end, it is probable that some sort of a "gentleman's agreement" will be arrived at between the leaders providing for a continuous organization in the house irrespective of the caprices of fate. This could be arranged through an agreement to divide some of the chairmanships, or by other means. Nothing will be done for the present, however—if for no other reason than that by a year from next December deaths and special elections may have contrived to give one party a safe margin of control. The whole situation is that uncertain.

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 8.—A recount of votes cast in the second Ohio congressional district which appeared probable today, may be a determining factor as to whether the Republicans or Democrats control the national house of representatives.

Supporters of Charles Sawyer, local attorney, who was the Democratic nominee for congress in the second district, declared today that there will be a recount. Complete unofficial returns indicate the re-election of Congressman William E. Hess, Republican, by a majority of 871 votes over Sawyer.

Democrats have lodged protests with the Hamilton County election board against certain votes, unofficially credited to Hess, which were cast in a number of precincts. The protesters claim that these votes are illegal, because more than one pencil was used in marking them.

JUDGE HOUGH RULES COLLECTION OF TAX FROM BANKS ILLEGAL

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 8.—Ohio laws providing for the collection of state taxes from national banks operating in this state are illegal, according to a decision handed down in federal court here today by Judge Benson W. Hough.

Judge Hough ruled that these state laws are in conflict with federal statutes which prohibit states from taxing the shares of stock of national banks at rates higher than those imposed upon competing financial institutions, such as building and loan companies, finance companies, mortgage companies and similar financial concerns.

Approximately $2,500,000 sought to be collected from national banks throughout Ohio as taxes are affected by this decision. State banks are not immediately involved.

In many counties, national banks secured temporary injunctions against their county treasurers, pending the outcome of the case which Judge Hough decided today. Only the taxes on shares of capital stock are affected. The national banks have paid, without protest, the state tax levied upon their real estate, as well as other taxes.

The ruling indicates favorable action may follow in Common Pleas Court here in four injunction suits now pending, filed by the Citizens National and Xenia National Banks of Xenia; the Spring Valley National Bank and the First National Bank at Osborn, which have temporarily enjoined the county treasurer from collecting taxes on the capital stock of these institutions.
